FAMINE STALKS AFTER HURRICANE

FRENCH FLIERS REACH DALLAS; EARN $25,000

Crowd of 10,000 Yells Welcome to Coste and Bellonte.

RETURN TO NEW YORK TO BE INTERRUPTED

Ocean Conquerors Will Make Stop Tonight in Louisville.

PLANS FORMULATED FOR GOOD-WILL TOUR

Air Trip Around U. S. Will Follow Reception in Washington.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, French transatlantic fliers, successfully completed their Paris-New York-Dallas flight here late today, capturing the $25,000 Easterwood purse. They are prepared to take off at 7 or 8 o'clock tomorrow morning for Louisville, Ky., for an overnight stop, continuing to New York Saturday, Rene Racover, American representative of the air heroes, announced tonight.

While announcement was made in New York that Coste and Bellonte would make a good-will tour of the United States before returning to France, Racover said nothing definite had been decided upon after the Washington visit, tentatively set for Sunday and Monday.

The time of tomorrow's take-off will depend upon weather reports

Accorded Wild Greeting.

Coste and his copilot landed their scarlet colored Question Mark at Love Field here at 5:29:45 p. m. (C. S. T.), 17 hours 34 minutes and 45 seconds after taking off from New York, and received a wild greeting from thousands of Texans.

A huge crowd gathered at the field gave the Frenchmen a vociferous greeting as they ended their 1,600-mile nonstop flight from New York.

Whisked away from the field after brief welcoming ceremonies, at which they made short speeches over a national radio hookup and expressed appreciation for the warm reception, the fliers headed a parade through the streets of Dallas.

Favorable Trip Reported.

Capt. Coste said that flying conditions over the route from New York had been favorable and no difficulty had been encountered in completing the hop, which was rather prosaic after the stormy crossing of the Atlantic. The total elapsed time from Paris to Dallas via New York was 48 hours 52 minutes and 11 seconds.

Presentation of the $25,000 award won by Coste and Bellonte probably will be made in New York. Col. William Easterwood, Dallas chewing gum distributor, who is the donor, announced in London today that the contract called for a personal presentation either in Paris, New York or Dallas. He said that if the air men remained in the United States until he could reach this country the check probably would be handed over in New York.

Easterwood described the feat of the Frenchmen as "the world's greatest flight."

Good Will Tour Planned.

Before returning to France the fliers will make a good will tour of the United States, including a visit to Washington, where they will be received by President Hoover and other high Government officials. Under tentative arrangements they will arrive in Washington next Sunday from New York for a stay of three days and be the guests of the President at a White House luncheon Monday.

The itinerary of the good-will tour, sponsored by a committee headed by Charles Hayden, New York banker, and having approval of the French and American governments, is yet to be announced.

The throng of admirers estimated in excess of 10,000, many of whom had sore necks from hours of gazing skyward searching for the Frenchmen, could not be held back by the 150 National Guardsmen and 50 city policemen as the Question Mark touched its wheels on the ground at Love Field.

Scoots Length of Field.

The plane scooted the full length of the field before it came to a stop. Before Coste and Bellonte could remove their goggles soldiers and policemen were fighting almost vainly to keep the crowd from lifting the fliers bodily from the sturdy craft.

A convoy of six planes, carrying a delegation of welcomers and a transport loaded with newspapermen,

Calvin Coolidge

Says: The senatorial committee investigating campaign expenses is not a dignified spectacle.

After the Supreme Court decision that jurisdiction over nominations rests with the States, an investigation of them under the fiction that it is for the purpose of future legislation is a questionable use of authority. It would seem to lead almost to the conclusion that the people can not be trusted to choose their own candidates without supervision. To admit that is to admit that self-government has failed.

Proper police power should be invoked through executive action against violations of the law. For a legislative committee to engage in it, to direct a force of detectives against candidates as though they were suspected of criminal action, does not comport with the dignity of a great deliberative body. Now a counter-band of detectives are investigating the investigators.

Evil practices in making nominations should be prevented and punished. But that is not the function of the Senate. Liberty requires that the executive, legislature and judiciary be kept separate. Tainted elections can be handled in a dignified way on the Senate floor. They do not warrant a dangerous invasion of executive functions and State rights.

Mrs. McCormick Faced By Woman Senate Foe

Shadowing Quiz Pauses As Nye, "Amused," Leaves for Rest.

Chicago, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, announced today, before leaving for a short rest in Wisconsin, that he was determined to continue his investigation of the Illinois senatorial primary expenditures, "no matter how unpleasant it may be." The Senate committee conducting the inquiry is to resume its work here September 15.

Senator Nye left after an impromptu two-day session of the committee, called to investigate the employment of private detectives by Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial nominee, to keep watch on the activities of the committee's investigators.

At the hearing the committee heard testimony by W. C. Dannenberg, head of the agency engaged by Mrs. McCormick, that the nominee employed him after the ransacking of files in her farm home at Byron, Ill., and after, Dannenberg said, a strange woman had been found in Mrs. McCormick's room at the Drake Hotel here. The detective also charged that the committee was not aware of the methods of its inquisitors, urged them to "investigate their own investigators," and refused to produce his records until his attorney had time to study the committee's powers.

The hearing was precipitated by Mrs. McCormick's statement that she was the employer of investigators whose existence was revealed at Fargo, N. Dak., and her question, "What is Senator Nye going to do about it?"

Senator Nye and his fellow committee member, Senator Porter H. Dale, of Vermont, have issued statements denouncing the employment of operatives to "shadow them," and declaring that the committee has acted ethically in its study of Mrs. McCormick's campaign expenditures. Before he left for Wittenburg, Wis., for a short vacation, Senator Nye said he had been "shadowed to exasperation," and added:

"Obnoxious as the whole business has been, it has not been without its humorous side, and I am now more amused than annoyed."

Mrs. O'Neill to Oppose Bitter Rival, Running As Independent.

Chicago, Sept. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for senator from Illinois, will battle with a Republican dry contender, Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, of Downers Grove, running as an independent, backed by the Antisaloon League and the powerful dry party down State. Mrs. O'Neill announced her candidacy today.

That a real fight, the finish of a bitter feud between the two women, will develop is a foregone conclusion. Mrs. O'Neill has attacked Mrs. McCormick frequently in the legislature and in political meetings. Mrs. O'Neill was a candidate for the post of national committeewoman at the Kansas City convention. Mrs. McCormick backed Mrs. Bertha Bauer and Mrs. Bauer was elected.

"My friends have persuaded me that it is my duty to become a candidate for United States senator and represent the true platform of the party, which is the platform adopted at Kansas City by the national convention," said Mrs. O'Neill.

"The action of the Republican State convention August 22 and the attitude of the Republican nominee for senator are responsible for my entrance into the senatorial contest. Like many others who have written, telegraphed and talked with me, I feel that those Republicans who believe in standing staunchly by the principles enunciated as true Republican doctrine by the last Republican national convention two years ago, are entitled to be represented by a candidate for senator in the coming election in Illinois. I have agreed to become that candidate."

Mrs. O'Neill is now a member of the legislature, having served four terms, and is the first woman elected to the Legislature in this State. She decided at the last primary to run for State senator and met defeat. State Superintendent George B. Stafford, of the Antisaloon League, called a meeting of his leaders and announced that they would officially indorse Mrs. O'Neill's candidacy.

"The Antisaloon League," said he,

Washington Bicentennial To Be National in Scope

Program Now Being Prepared Aims at Inclusion of 30,000,000 School Children in Pageants; States to Offer Cooperation.

Explaining that the George Washington Bicentennial is not to be in the form of an exposition or material display, directors of the bicentennial issued a statement yesterday outlining aims of the celebration.

The bicentennial, directors point out, is not to be confined to the District of Columbia, but will touch every part of the country. Besides the Federal commission, created by the United States Government and Congress, each State is to have a State commission to work in cooperation with the national commission.

The celebration will begin February 22, 1932, and will continue until Thanksgiving Day of that year. Excluding material phases, the commission hopes that emphasis will be placed on the spiritual, "reviving among all people a love of country and devotion to the ideals so strongly exemplified in the life of George Washington."

The program for the bicentennial, now being prepared by the associate directors, Col. U. S. Grant 3d and Representative Sol Bloom, is intended to provide for the participation of every man, woman and child in the United States with the view of making the celebration Nation-wide in scope.

School children will be given an important part. Carefully gathered material concerning George Washington is to be placed before the 30,000,000 school children in the United States in the form of programs, pageants and plays. Each schoolhouse in the country will be presented with a portrait of Washington, and it is expected that the American flag will

DEFECTIVE CAR TO BAR DRIVER FROM PERMIT

Certificate of Safety Must Be Issued by Mechanics.

90 DAYS TO BE GIVEN FOR MAKING REPAIRS

Inspection Is Not Expected to Involve Cost to Motorists.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Before they get their 1932 license plates Washington motorists will be compelled to give evidence that their cars are in a safe mechanical condition.

A recommendation in favor of compulsory mechanical inspection may be regarded as an absolute certainty among those which will be laid before the traffic advisory committee shortly after October 1 when that body, appointed by the District Commissioners, is scheduled to meet to consider recommendations of nine subcommittees dealing with various aspects of the local traffic situation.

As envisioned now, the recommendation is reliably reported to call for a procedure similar to that in effect in Maryland and Pennsylvania. The plan, as employed in those States and others, has been carefully studied here.

How System Will Work.

The projected system will require that, 90 days prior to registration of vehicles, every car owner in the District of Columbia must take his automobile to an officially designated station for a thorough mechanical inspection. Its general condition will be noted and specific attention paid to its safety features—brakes, headlights, steering mechanism, horn, tires, windshield cleaner and rear-view mirror.

If the car is approved its owner will be given a certificate to that effect. Such a certificate, together with a receipt for payment of personal property tax on the car, must be shown before new license plates will be issued.

Owners of cars which fail to pass the inspection will have an interval of 90 days in which to permit them to have the car put in first-class condition before the period of registration. This interval is generally regarded as sufficient in those States in which a similar regulation is in effect.

No Cost to Be Involved.

Unless the system adopted here departs radically from that in use in other places, no cost will be attached to the actual inspection. Qualified service stations and repair shops, which are expected to include every dealer's service station in the city, will be officially designated as authorized to inspect vehicles.

To one of these the motorist will take his car. It will be inspected by a qualified mechanic and approved or disapproved. In the former case a certificate of approval will be issued without cost. In the latter, the motorist must have the car repaired. He may have it done by the inspecting station or by a shop of his own choice.

Especial care will be taken by officials here, as elsewhere, to guard the motorist against the unscrupul-

RIGHTS IN ANDREE'S DIARIES ARE PUZZLE

Experts Finish Examination of Relics Recaptured From Arctic.

REPACKED FOR JOURNEY

Stockholm, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The question as to ownership of the Salomon August Andree diaries, found last month on the body of the explorer who perished on White Island 33 years ago, presents a problem which is puzzling many persons.

Since Andree died in 1847 and the ownership of written or printed matter ceases in Sweden 30 years after the author's death, it is held doubtful whether the relatives of those who were on the expedition will be able to claim the books. They probably will be place in the hands of the Swedish government, it is said.

(Copyright, 1930, by the Associated Press and all rights reserved in North America, South America and Japan.)

Tromsoe, Norway, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The experts have finished their examination of the Andree relics, recaptured from the Arctic after 33 years, and tonight began repacking them for shipment to Sweden.

A memorial service probably will be held for the dead explorers in Tromsoe church Monday and then the journey to the homeland will be started. The Swedish naval vessel Svenskund will bear the remnants of the 1897 polar expedition, accompanied by the Norwegian naval vessel Michael Sars and the little sealer Bratvaag, which returned the bodies of Salomon August Andree and Nils Strindberg from White Island.

Tomorrow the experts who examined the Andree effects will publish a statement giving their views of the find.

The experts on the commission examining the relics still are silent concerning the contents of the diaries and notebook, but it was unofficially reported tonight that ultimately it will be revealed that Andree and his two companions were up in their

Cuba and Florida Held Likely to Miss Storm

Havana, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Officials of Belen Observatory said late tonight they believed there was no danger that the hurricane now raging over the Caribbean waters would reach Florida or even Cuba in force.

The Rev. Mariano Gutierrez Lanza, director of the observatory, denied previous reports that a sudden change in the hurricane's course had taken place and that all of Cuba and the lower part of the United States, particularly Florida, would suffer heavily.

"I would like definitely to put an end to this rumor," he said. "The gale has lost much of its force in the mountainous regions of Haiti. We do not feel that Cuba or Florida are in any peril."

Red Cross and Marines Join in Rushing Relief for Stricken Areas.

$15,000 FUND IS CABLED

(Associated Press.)

Reports of hundreds dead and other hundreds injured reached the Capital late yesterday from Santo Domingo, as first accounts of the hurricane which swept the island Wednesday came over the disrupted communication system.

Gov. Roosevelt of Porto Rico in a cablegram to the American Red Cross estimated the dead at from 300 to 1,000, with 90 per cent of the population of Santo Domingo homeless. A few minutes later Marine Corps headquarters was advised by Col. R. M. Cutts, commander of the First Brigade at Port au Prince, Haiti, that "half the city of Santo Domingo was completely destroyed, 200 were killed and 500 injured."

Upon recommendation of Col. Cutts, Secretary Adams and Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps, approved the sending of a plane from Port au Prince to Santo Domingo to ascertain if medical or other assistance were desired, and at the same time Secretary Adams approved the sending of medical supplies to the stricken area.

Col. Cutts said that he had been unable to establish direct communication with Santo Domingo, which is on the eastward end of the island from Port au Prince.

Gov. Roosevelt said that part of his information was received from a Pan-American aviator who landed near Santo Domingo early yesterday. "Word from town indicates 90 per

Policeman in Alexandria Killed in Fire Engine Crash

W. W. Lipscomb, Responding to Alarm With Engine Company, Loses Life When Apparatus Is Ditched to Avoid Collision With Truck.

Policeman Witfield W. Lipscomb, of Alexandria, Va., riding on Engine Co. No. 2 out of the Potomac station, was killed yesterday afternoon when the engine, forced off the Washington-Richmond highway by a truck, overturned into a ditch.

Taken to the Alexandria, Va., hospital, Policeman Lipscomb was declared dead upon arrival. His neck was broken when he was thrown from the speeding fire apparatus.

According to police reports of the accident, Engine No. 2 was responding to an alarm from a brush fire near the Arlington County line. At a spot about 300 yards from the fire a truck pulled into the center of the road in front of the fire engine.

Fireman Thomas Cockrell, driver of the fire engine, chose the ditch instead of a collision with the truck, but was unable to right his heavy machine, which turned over completely. Cockrell, Charles Duncan and A. B. Brown, the three firemen

STRICKEN ISLE ASKS FOOD AND MEDICINE

Silence Veils Other Parts of Antilles and Further Loss Is Feared.

San Juan, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt was informed tonight that 800 were dead in the city of Santo Domingo alone as the result of the tropical hurricane with no part of the interior of the Dominican Republic heard from.

The governor's information came from Maj. Cary I. Crockett, who flew from San Juan to the Dominican capital this evening.

Maj. Crockett's estimate was made after he had conferred with President Trujillo and Charles B. Curtis, American Minister.

(Associated Press.)

The tropical hurricane which roared up from the Caribbean Sea and paralyzed the City of Santo Domingo Wednesday had changed its course last night and apparently was heading for the Florida Straits, although with diminished force.

With the dead in Santo Domingo estimated from 300 to 1,000 and so many buildings destroyed that probably 90 per cent of the inhabitants are homeless, communities in the path of the disturbance watched anxiously.

Both the Belen and National Observatories in Havana reported yesterday afternoon that the hurricane's course had changed. When it began, it swept over the British island of Dominica, in the Leeward group, then swept northwestward over the Dominican Republic, wrecking Santo Domingo, the capital. It missed the western end of the island, containing the Republic of Haiti.

May Touch Northern Cuba.

Then the storm swirled northward and Cuba, which had been in the previous path, breathed easier. But later computations indicated that at least the north shore of Cuba might be touched, likewise the numerous islands of the Bahamas and the Florida keys.

The Washington Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory, 9 p. m.—The tropical disturbance is apparently central near the northeast coast of Cuba between Baracoa and Neuvitas, with considerably lessened intensity, no wind of gale force being reported tonight. The disturbance will likely continue moving west-northwestward and reach the Florida Straits by or during Friday night."

Famine and Disease Loom.

Santo Domingo, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The specters of hunger and disease following the tropical hurricane, which killed more than 200 and injured 1,000 here, confronted authorities this afternoon and calls were issued for medical supplies and food.

The city itself still is isolated from the rest of the republic and all estimates of casualties and material damage over the country are mere guesswork, since the hurricane must have

There is no man or woman in this city today who has not suffered either bodily or materially from the storm. Thousands of native houses were flattened and their inhabitants are without light and water and a shortage of food also is imminent. Help is

Bridge Now Is Junk.

Half of the first New World settlement of the white race is in ruins. Homes, business blocks, public buildings, power facilities and the bridge spanning the Ozama River have been battered and twisted into jumbled wreckage.

Airplanes circled over the scene of ruin early today and gave the world the first view of the catastrophe. Later plans were launched for other planes, of maximum capacity, to transport from Porto Rico and elsewhere every possible form of relief, including medical supplies.

Santo Domingo City faced a water famine, imperiling its 40,000 or more inhabitants. Efforts were begun to send fresh water in from island points by overland truck transport.

Port au Prince, metropolis of Haiti, at the other end of the island, escaped the fury of the hurricane and experienced only unusually high winds and heavy rains. So oblivious was Port au Prince of the disaster in the capital of the neighboring republic that this morning's newspapers carried only a mention of the local storm and no news of the Santo Domingo destruction.

Supplies May Be Delayed.

Roads into this city today were all but impassable, causing serious misgivings regarding the prompt dispatch of supplies from other island communities. The problem of communication likewise presented itself. Only one cable line was restored with temporary equipment and impaired direct communication broke a silence of more than 24 hours.

Officials tonight were trying to obtain communication with other points in the republic in an effort to ascertain the full extent of the blow.

The hurricane struck at 2 p. m. and blew for four hours. Houses in the aristocratic quarter were razed to their foundations. Dwellings of the poor simply disappeared on the wings of a wind estimated to be blowing around 150 miles an hour.

Scenes whose horror exceeded anything witnessed here in ten years followed its passage. The lunatic asylum was destroyed and those inmates escaping death ran wild through the city streets. They were finally recaptured by soldiers and police. There have been many robberies.

The districts of Neuva Villa, Duarte and San Carlos were completely destroyed, scarcely a wreck of a wall left standing.

Haiti Sends Help.

Port au Prince, Haiti, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—Haiti marshaled its forces tonight to relieve its stricken neighbor on the east, the Dominican Republic, and sent two truckloads of medical equipment with Haitian physicians to Santo Domingo. Others will be sent as they are assembled.

The cable office here was besieged today by friends and relatives of those in the stricken area.

Santiago de Cuba, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—First details of the West Indies hurricane disaster in the small outlying islands of the Lesser Antilles reached here this afternoon after partial restoration of crippled communication lines.

Reports confirming earlier radio messages that about 20 persons had been killed upon the little island of Dominica were received.

Other Casualties Feared.

The havoc and loss in other islands of the Antilles is believed to be proportionate to that reported in Santo Domingo. The broadcasting station at Morne Daniel, Dominica, was destroyed along with other buildings.

The number of casualties in these tiny populated dots upon the broad map of the Caribbean was unknown for want of communications.

Supplies of electrical equipment were being gathered here to be rushed to Dominica so that communications could be restored.

May Pass Florida Straits.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—R. W. Gray, Government meteorologist here, issued the following statement concerning the West Indian hurricane this afternoon:

"Radio reports received during the afternoon indicated the storm center was south of Great Inaugua, in the Bahama Islands, and probably in Windward Passage. It apparently was continuing its west-northwestward movement. If it should continue this course, it will skirt the northern coast of Cuba and pass through the Florida Straits.

"Future developments could, of course, alter this course. There is no danger of strong winds on the extreme lower East Coast of Florida before late Friday afternoon or Friday night."

Feed Stock Wheat, Is Legge's Advice

Chairman of Farm Board Gives Advice to Farmers in Radio Address.

(Associated Press.)

A warning that live stock growers must substitute wheat and other small grains for corn in feeding if a normal supply of meat, dairy products and poultry is to be produced this winter was issued last night by Chairman Legge, of the Federal Farm Board.

In addition to being a measure of economy for the producers, he said in an address over the Columbia Broadcasting System this substitution should have a beneficial effect upon the situation in the wheat market. To obtain the best results substitution should begin at once, he continued, by mixing the substitute grains with corn. In this way, the chairman explained, a complete change in the cattle ration at a later date may be averted.

The shortage of corn, created by the drought, he explained, has brought on an abnormal situation, which would be bettered materially by the substitution suggested, as, in his opinion, it would place next year's feed supply upon a fairly normal basis.

All Pan-American Structures at Santo Domingo Airport Except One Blown Off.

AIRMAN MAKES SURVEY

Miami, Fla., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—All buildings of Pan-American Airways, Inc., at its Santo Domingo airport, except the Terminal building, were blown away during the hurricane that struck the city yesterday, accoording to radio advices received today by R. I. Dunton, operations manager for the company here.

Dunton said the barometer at the air field dropped to 28.00 during the storm and then blew away. Officials and employes of the airways concern at the airport escaped harm by taking refuge in the terminal building. Employes of the company were unable to get from the airport to the City of Santo Domingo up to noon today, because of wreckage, the message to Dunton said.

The radio report was sent by S. J. Williamson, Pan-American pilot, who landed a relief plane at Santo Domingo today to effect repairs to the company's radio equipment. Radio facilities were disrupted during the storm.

Williamson said that in flying over the city, he could see that it was badly wrecked and that many small buildings had been blown away. He left San Juan, Porto Rico, this morning. He also carried a supply of food in the plane.

Williamson's report said the wind blew as high as 150 miles an hour during the storm yesterday. The last previous report received by Pan-American yesterday was that the velocity of the wind was 136 miles an hour here. The radio tower at the airport was blown down.

Liner Limps Into San Juan, Victor in Hurricane Battle

Captain of Coamo at Loss to Explain Ship's Survival in Storm During Which Barometer Hit Bottom and Mountainous Waves Swept Decks.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 4 (A. P.).—A battered tropical passenger liner limped into this port today after having passed through the very center of one of the worst hurricanes the Caribbean has known in many years. The ship, the Porto Rico liner Coamo, Capt. Thomas Evans, escaped annihilation narrowly.

The Coamo turned back from Santo Domingo, her destination, last night, and for a dozen hours no word came of her fate. Her wireless failed early in the evening and it had been feared disaster had been visited upon the ship and all on board.

Emerging from the great windstorm this morning, the skipper, Capt. Evans, brought the Coamo safely to anchor, but he could not explain how, with the storm at its height all about him, amid furious seas, the ship missed being wiped out.

Buffeted for more than 7 hours, the engineers raced the engines at full speed, but could make little or no headway. The wind stripped the decks of everything movable, tore off hatches and threw the vessel so far over on her side that the oiling machinery was useless. At last Chief Engineer McGough was forced to stop the engines entirely so that emergency oiling could be done and fuel oil ballast could be pumped from port to starboard bunkers to trim the ship.

In all of this maelstrom not a life was lost and only a few passengers were slightly injured.

Capt. Evans said the barometer went to the bottom of the glass while his ship was in the center of the storm.

Dr. W. F. Gray, ship's surgeon, who made a further examination of all in his charge, announced that their injuries were trivial.

Capt. Evans praised the conduct of the passengers and crew and the passengers drafted a letter praising the captain and crew.

"With a good crew you can weather any storm," the skipper declared. "My crew behaved wonderfully."

The Coamo, due to sail for New York today, probably will be held here at least for 24 hours.

Because of storm warnings the Coamo had delayed sailing from San Juan for Santo Domingo a full day. During the early hours of yesterday the barometer went on a rampage, rising and falling and stopping at 27.75 because it could go no lower.

The ship was then four miles off Santo Domingo Harbor. The seas were running too high to permit anchorage. Capt. Evans cruised about, hoping for calm.

Suddenly a strong off-shore wind and rain blotted out the island before the skipper's gaze. From then until afternoon the storm rose in intensity. Just before 1 p. m., the captain said, the ship approached the center of the disturbance.

"In all my years at sea I never have encountered more wind," Capt. Evans said.

Victor Braegger, representative of the Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore in Porto Rico and Santo Domingo, describing the storm said: "At 1 o'clock all of a sudden the wind subsided as if by magic. We had reached the center of the storm and an oasis of comparative calm.

"Mountainous waves were rolling past us. The ship became a haven for all kinds of sea birds seeking shelter, clinging to the railing, ropes, canvas and window sills of the cabins. The birds seemed exhausted as if from a struggle of hours in the terrific gale.

"It was pitiful to see the birds making their desperate efforts for life, losing their strength at length and being tossed again into the rising wind.

"During this period of comparative calm the atmospheric pressure was so great I thought my ears would burst. I had a distinct taste of blood in my mouth. Others experienced the same sensations. This lasted not more than half an hour.

"At 1:30 p. m., with a terrific pounding and slamming of wind and waves, we were driven right into the thick of it again. Only this time the intensity of the storm and the howling and hissing of wind and rain together seemed greater than before.

"The ship seemed to spring leaks everywhere. The water came in through ceilings, doors, windows, broken skylights—from everywhere and nowhere. All you could see was here or there a flash of spray. The din was terrific. The ship would tip until it seemed it never could right itself."

Demurrer to Petition Against Mortuary Wins

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 4.—Judge F. P. Christian in the corporation court today sustained a demurrer to the petition of abutting property owners for an injunction to enjoin W. D. Diuguid, Inc., from locating a mortuary at Rivermont avenue and Fitzhugh place, but permitted the complainants to amend their bill.

It was held that the bill did not make specific allegations why a mortuary would constitute a nuisance in a residential district. Joining the petition are trustees of Holy Trinity Luthern Church, who object to a mortuary next to that church property.

Dry Agents Shun Boys as Helpless

Woodcock Says He Never Had Any Idea of Using Them in Enforcement.

The prohibition administration never had any intention of using boys in the enforcement of the Volstead act, Director Amos W. W. Woodcock said yesterday in announcing that he had not ordered the elimination of this suggestion from the printed lessons now being used as "textbooks" by the school for prohibition agents in session here.

The offending passage, which explained that youngsters might be engaged in games near a place under surveillance without attracting attention, was inserted in a course which amounted to general data on criminal investigation, he added.

"To much emphasis has been put on these items in the course which is designed to acquaint the agents fully with criminal investigation methods," said Col. Woodcock. "We have no intention of hiring boys for prohibition work."

CAPITAL MAN FEARS FOR FAMILY ON ISLE

Son of Dominican Cabinet Member Unable to Hear From Him.

MAY HAVE FLED HOME

The parents and sister, with her three small children, of a man now living in Washington were feared to be in the storm area of Santo Domingo last night.

Gonzalo Galvan, of 4109 Ingomar street, Chevy Chase, whose father, Manuel J. Galvan, is secretary of the interior of the Dominican Republic, sought almost frantically to establish communication with the devastated city, but at a late hour he had been unsuccessful.

While his own home was at San Carlos, on the outskirts of Santo Domingo, Mr. Galvan said his family may have heeded the warning of the approaching hurricane and fled to safety. Moreover, they lived in a well-built house that could probably bear the brunt of the 160-mile-an-hour wind, he said.

While the majority of the buildings in the Dominican capital are of stucco and, consequently of flimsy constructoin, some of the newer and better homes are made of concrete and have storm cellars, Mr. Galvan explained. The Dominicans have recently been adopting American architecture, particularly of the type in the Western States built to withstand high winds.

The young man's father was one of the leaders of the recent upheaval which placed Rafael Trujillo, the present president, at the head of the government.

His parents, as well as his sister, have been visitors in the Capital. Louis Galvan, his uncle, was minister of the Dominican Republic in Washington for some time until his death here seven years ago.

Officials of the Dominican Legation were aiding Mr. Galvan last night in his efforts to learn whether his family is safe.

MARINER AND RED CROSS JOIN IN SANTO DOMINGO RELIEF

cent of population homeless," the Roosevelt communication said. "No estimate of killed or injured. Other cables from All American Cables Co. place estimates as low as 50 per cent of town destroped. All cables, however, indicate great damage and considerable loss of life, radio towers down, food, water and medical aid lacking. Estimates of dead running from 300 to 1,000."

Admiral F. C. Billard, commander of the Coast Guard, offered to the Red Cross use of the cutter Pontchartrain, now at Mobile, for transporting supplies to Santo Domingo if it is needed.

Red Cross Cables $15,000.

On the heels of reports that 300 lives were lost in the Dominican Republic and that the hurricane was beating its way northward, the Red Cross cabled to American Minister Curtis an "initial appropriation" of $15,000 and instructed Capt. Antonio Silva, manager of the Porto Rican chapter of the Red Cross and an experienced hurricane relief worker, to proceed by air to the scene.

The Red Cross last night authorized Gov. Roosevelt to spend $5,000 for emergency medical supplies to be shipped from San Juan to Santo Domingo today.

Meanwhile, residents of Cuba and Florida looked anxiously out across the water as weather forecasters declined to commit themselves upon whether they would be struck by the hurricane. Late reports said that the hurricane had veered toward Cuba again after apparently turning away from the island.

At the first indication that the American coast might be endangered, the Red Cross expects to organize State chapters into relief units, with special facilities made available from the Capital if it seems warranted.

Official News Scarce.

More than 25 hours after the hurricane settled suddenly upon Santo Domingo, blotting it out from communication with the outside world, only meager reports of the disaster, and these unofficial, had reached this country.

The Navy Department had its instruments keyed for any message from the island and information from San Juan, Porto Rico, and Key West, Fla., also was awaited. One informal report reached the State Department that the roof of the American Legation at Santo Domingo had been blown away. The cable came from Minister Curtis to his wife, who in turn informed W. W. Russell, former American Minister to the island republic. Mr. Curtis had not advised the Washington Government, however, of the occurrence.

Capt. Silva was instructed by the Red Cross to report immediately after making a survey upon loss of life and damage. The question of sending supplies to Santo Domingo is to be determined after receipt of this report.

Statement by Payne.

Chairman John Barton Payne, of the Red Cross, said today that shiploads of supplies rushed to Porto Rico in 1928 and in previous years to other scenes of disaster, were found useless and impractical and failed to meet the needs of the disaster victims.

With cash, Mr. Payne said, Capt. Silva will be able to purchase all needed supplies.

The Navy Department announced its approval of a request of Gov. Roosevelt of Porto Rico to detail the U. S. S. Grebe, station ship at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, to report to San Juan to assist in conveying medical attention and supplies to the hurricane-stricken region. The request was forwarded to the department by Capt. Waldo Evans, U. S. N., retired, Governor of the Virgin Islands.

Night Vigil Maintained.

The Red Cross was keeping a night-long watch for news of the hurricane. Ernest L. Swift, vice chairman for foreign operations, remained at headquarters with a staff of assistants. He said that emergency supplies of clothing would be shipped to Santo Domingo tomorrow.

The Bull Insular steamer Catherine is being held at San Juan to transport emergency medical supplies, Mr. Swift was informed.

He said that the Coast Guard cutter Pontchartrain would be of great value because it has aboard a large plant for distilling water and reports from the affected area have declared water supplies were cut off.

Tobacco Dealer Falls Victim to Swindler

Washington's latest wrinkle in the racketeer world last night added its third victim when the manager of the tobacco department of a chain drug store at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest reported that he had been victimized by a Negro who failed to pay for tobacco valued at $16.

For the last three nights the Negro has called a different store each night and has asked for the delivery of large quantities of tobacco. In each instance he has gone through the back door while the delivery boy has waited in the front for his money.

FRENCH FLIERS REACH DALLAS

which left the field hurriedly an hour earlier to keep a rendezvous with the French plane at Greenville, about 50 miles away, did not return for more than a hour after Coste and Bellonte had been officially received and had been taken escorted through the city along streets lined by thousands of cheering persons.

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Definite announcement was made today that the transatlantic fliers, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, would make a good-will tour of the United States before returning to their own country.

Statement by Hayden.

"The good-will tour," Charles Hayden, New York banker, said in announcing that he had accepted chairmanship of the committee sponsoring the flight, "has the full approval, we have learned today, of the Government of the United States. The French Embassy in Washington is prepared to grant the French fliers permission to accept the invitation of the committee to make the tour.

"We have been further assured today that the Aeronautics Division of the United States Department of Commerce, in accordance with the wishes of the Secretary, will cooperate to the fullest extent to make the flight a success. This department of the Government, however, will have no part in laying out the itinerary for the tour, plans for this being undertaken by the committee. Upon receiving assurance from me that the tour will have no commercial aspects, the Department of Commerce will probably detail one of its own planes to accompany the French plane.

Personnel to Be Announced.

"The complete personnel of the committee will be announced within the next few days."

Although it was not announced who would comprise the committee, it was understood Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had shown interest in such a tour.

Paris, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Mme. Mary Coste today followed closely the course of Capt. Dieudonne Coste's flight to Dallas with Maurice Bellonte, and was delighted to hear that he reached the Texas city safely.

Wishes She Were With Him.

"There are times in life when it seems impossible to think coherently," she told the Associated Press. "Tonight, when you informed me of the safe arrival of my husband in Dallas, is one of them.

"I am deeply moved and my affection and admiration for my husband divide my emotions. All I can say is that I am infinitely happy for him who is now spending some of the most glorious hours of his career."

Then she added wistfully: "I wish I were with him."

DEFECTIVE CARS WILL HALT ISSUANCE OF DISTRICT PLATES

ous and unqualified shop which would take advantage of car owners. Standards for authorized stations have been raised from year to year in other places and these, undoubtedly, will be followed in the National Capital.

No Surprise to Authorities.

The recommendation will come as no surprise to many District authorities. Ever since Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Massachusetts, among the Atlantic seaboard States, enacted compulsory inspection laws, many have felt that the District should follow the same example. The subject was frequently discussed in the District Building long before the appointment of the committee which will recommend it.

There is no likelihood of the regulation going into effect here this year. The committee will not meet until after October 1, which would not allow the 90-day period believed necessary.

The present traffic regulations empower traffic officials and the police to apply a limited form of mechanical inspection. Any vehicle suspected of being in an unsafe condition may be subjected to a brake, headlight or steering mechanism test to determine its fitness.

Standards of Performance.

Further than that, the regulations specify certain standards of performance for various features of the car, such as a stopping distance of 50 feet from a speed of 20 miles an hour with the service or foot brakes, and headlight illumination sufficient to show up an object the size of a man at a distance of 200 feet.

The traffic director is authorized to revoke the registration of vehicles which fail to meet this or other safety requirements.

The proposed plan of compulsory inspection, however, goes further, in that it requires a certificate of good condition for every vehicle before it is registered at the beginning of each year.

Four Face Killing Charge in Virginia

Selma Men Are Held After Recluse, 72, Is Found Beaten to Death.

Covington, Va., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Four men were in jail tonight harged with the murder of Frank Bryant, 72-year-old recluse who, officiers said, was beaten to death early this morning at his one-room cabin at Selma, near Clifton Forge.

Tom Wren, 25, and Raymond Edwards, 21, are in jail at Covington, and Ivan Wren, 17, and Robert Keys, about 30, are being held in the Clifton Forge Jail. All live at Selma.

Commonwealth's Attorney Julian Bryant, of Alleghany County, who placed the charges of murder against the four men, said tonight there was "bad blood" between Frank Bryant and the four men held. The Commonwealth's attorney said the aged man reported to authorities several months ago that the men were violating the prohibition laws.

Plot to Rob Bank Foiled by Citizens

Trio Flees After Suspected Plan to Kidnap Cashier Near Winchester.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 4.—A suspected plot to kidnap Russell Shryock, cashier of the Peoples Bank at Stephens City, near here, and then compel him to open the money vault for the purpose of robbery, was frustrated last night when citizens armed themselves with shotguns and other weapons and waited for three suspicious looking men to make the first move. Evidently scared, however, when they saw the town's main street bristling with weapons, the men jumped into a parked automobile and disappeared in the direction of Front Royal.

They were in a machine bearing a District of Columbia license. Directors of the bank had been holding their weekly business meeting and did not adjourn until a late hour. While they were in session numerous citizens observed the strangers loitering in the vicinity of the bank. The men evidently knew who the cashier was, for one of them was heard to say to a companion soon after the meeting, "There he goes now; he is the man we want," pointing to Shryock as he left the bank building.

Meanwhile, citizens who had observed the tactics of the strangers telephoned to their neighbors, and Sheriff Pannett was also called from Winchester by Mayor Gervis E. Lemley of Stephens City.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 4.—While leading a mule from a barn during a storm last night in Prince George County, near Petersburg, John W. Mraz, 13, was instantly killed by lightning. The mule also was killed. The boy is survived by his mother and several brothers and sisters.

The bolt of lightning that killed the boy came through the barn door without damaging the building at all. It left no marks upon his body except a bruise on his chest.

TRIO OF U. S. ACES WILL GREET COSTE

Lindbergh, Byrd and Rickenbacker to Meet Noted French Flier in Capital.

HOOVER WILL BE HOST

America's great triumvirate of the air—Lindbergh, Byrd and Rickenbacker—will be in Washington to greet the French transatlantic fliers, Coste and Bellonte, when they come here next week.

All three have accepted an invitation to attend the luncheon which President Hoover will give for the Paris-to-New York airmen Monday afternoon, and they also are expected to attend the banquet which the Washington Board of Trade is tendering them Monday night. In fact, Col. Eddie Rickenbacker, America's greatest war bird, already has accepted the invitation.

It is probable that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will escort Coste and Bellonte when the latter fly here from New York Sunday afternoon.

Curtis to Be Orator.

The principal orator at the Board of Trade banquet, it was announced yesterday, will be Vice President Charles Curtis. He accepted readily when the invitation to speak was extended to him by Robert J. Cottrell and Lawrence E. Williams.

In addition to Vice President Curtis, a host of notables have notified the Board of Trade that they will be present to honor the French fliers, among them Gen. John J. Pershing, Secretary of the Navy Adams, Assistant Secretary of War Trubee Davidson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Clarence M. Young, former Assistant Secretary of Commerce William P. MacCracken, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet and Rear Admiral William Moffatt. Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby will make a speech of welcome.

The Board of Trade has issued invitations to 5,000 prominent Washingtonians, and tickets will be given to the first 700 who accept. The banquet will be given in the Willard Hotel, and will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Will Arrive Sunday.

The program for the two-day visit of the French airmen calls for their arrival at Bolling Field about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. They will be escorted in by a squadron of Army and Navy fliers and possibly by Col. Lindbergh.

It is probable that they will be greeted at the field by George Akerson, secretary to the President, and by the officials in charge of the Government's aviation activities.

Escorted by a detail of motorcycle policemen, the fliers will be taken to the French Embassy where they will spend the night as the guests of Jules Henry, the French charge d'affaires.

Early Monday morning they will journey to Arlington National Cemetery and place a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Then they will call at the State Department, the War Department, Navy Department and Department of Commerce.

Fete to Go On Radio.

They will call at the White House at 12:30 o'clock and will be presented to President Hoover by Charge d'Affaires Henry.

The President's speech of welcome, together with the replies of Coste and Bellonte in French, will be broadcast by both the National and the Columbia Broadcasting systems. The National Broadcasting Co. has arranged to broadcast the ceremony, not only in this country, but in Canada and France, and possibly England and Germany.

After the exchange of greetings, which will take place on the south lawn of the White House, the fliers will be the President's guests at luncheon.

At 4 o'clock, a reception is to be given in their honor at the French Embassy, and after that will come the Board of Trade banquet at the Willard.

Woman and Son Hurt In Valley Pike Crash

Winchester, Va., Sept 4.—Mrs. G. S. Graham, wife of Dr. Graham, head of a Birmingham, Ala., hospital, and her young son were treated at a hospital last evening for numerous cuts, bruises and sprains, resulting from their automobile being struck on the Valley pike near Stephens City by a machine driven by George Abood, of Charleston, W. Va.

The Graham automobile was completely wrecked.

EXPERTS FINISH TASK

balloon before disaster overtook them.

It is understood that they came down at 12:30 p. m. on July 13, 1897. There is no intimation of what happened to the balloon.

The diary and log of Andree today focused the interest of experts examining the relics of his expedition.

These priceless notes are being guarded with extreme care by experts, and their contents have not been divulged. Close observers, however, believe that these books will provide a dramatic and more or less complete history of the Andree expedition from the time the explorers started away with a balloon until Andree, as sole survivor, leaned his poor, wracked frame against an earthy bank near his last stand and composed himself to die.

As he died he tried to shield some of his records with his body so that the world some time might know the story of his adventure. It should be repeated that this is mere speculation, since the outside world has had nothing from Andree's records. However, observers feel at liberty to put two and two together and hazard a guess as to what may come.

It is believed the records are written as concisely as possible without unnecessary details, partly because of frightful torture which the explorers were undergoing and partly to conserve their pencils.

It is believed that Andree kept his tragic memoranda to the last. His notes may tell how disasater overtook the balloon wherein the three were trying to fly across the pole. Then came a terrible march across churning ice fields in bitter Arctic cold.

Three they were for a time—Andree, Nils Strindberg and Knut Frankel—and then something happened to Frankel. Perhaps exhaustion overtook him. Perhaps he fell through a hole in the ice into the green waters which swallowed him.

Struggle Meant Life.

It needs no diary to tell that Andree and Strindberg struggled on, dragging with them their heavy equipment which they dared not desert, for it meant life and possibly rescue. Obviously they finally came to White Island, where they died.

Andree's notes may tell when they arrived at White Island and may reveal how long they were able to cling to life after their arrival. They may not have been there long, because no proper camp had been prepared. They may have been too exhausted and numbed.

Experts already have decided that Strindberg died first and that Andree performed the last burial rites for his comrade. What efforts that performance cost Andree may never be learned from the diary.

Fought to Last.

Certainly the diary will not mention Andree's death, but experts have already decided how he died.

Alone in that desolate waste of ice, exhausted by exertion during the long march to White Island, and bitten to the bone by life-destroying winds which howled down from the mountains of ice, he finally braced himself in the only sheltered niche he could find and prepared to die.

Beside him was an oil stove with which he still continued to fight the cold, and beside him was his carbine to keep polar bears away from his well night helpless body. He wrapped two of his notebooks in a shirt and placed them next to the skin of his back. He then braced himself against the little hill, his body protecting his records. He died like a hero, as near a standing position as he could maintain, battling to the last against his certain fate.

Examination of Body Continues.

Tromsoe, Norway, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Examination of the bodies of Salomon August Andree and Nils Strindberg, resumed this morning by the Swedish experts, Prof. Hedren and Prof. Lithberg, produced a variety of small objects belonging to the two men but threw little additional light on the fate of the expedition.

In Andree's pocket was discovered a box of matches, besides some trinkets identified as having belonged to Strindberg, who apparently died before Andree and was buried by him on White Island. Strindberg's belongings were recognized by his brother, a Stockholm sculptor.

The preserved body of a very rare Arctic bird, nautical tables and charts, all belonging to Andree, were found among the objects in the boat.

Diaries Kept Locked Up.

The diaries are being kept carefully locked, and it is stated that even the experts have not yet examined them thoroughly. Mr Hoel, the Norwegian scientist, said that statements about them were based on rumor and guesswork.

Prof. Lithberg stated that all members of the examining commission had sworn silence on their contents, and that nobody else had been permitted to get near the books. The doors of the room where they are stored were padlocked and sealed Tuesday night and the seals were unbroken when the commission started to work yesterday.

"I know nothing about Frankel's death during the march (Stockholm dispatches yesterday reported that this was narrated in the diary). I have had no time for studying the diaries. We have been busy preparing the finds, and if any other member of the commission had seen such a thing he would certainly have told me.

Sworn to Silence.

"Besides this, all the members of the commission have sworn silence, and nobody else has been permitted to get near the books.

"It was past 11 o'clock when we finished our work Tuesday night and left the hospital. We then locked one door by padlocks and the other one we sealed. On returning Wednesday morning the seals were unbroken.

"The diaries as well as all other finds will be handed over to the Swedish government. In the meantime, so far as it depends upon me, nobody will get to know anything of the contents of the diaries."

Shells and Knife Found.

The commission this morning issued a statement on their most recent finds.

"The continued examination of Andree's body has not produced any new finds to throw further light on the fate of his expedition.

"In his pocket, however, were found a number of shells for his gun, a box of matches and a pocket knife. After that Strindberg's body was examined. In one of his pockets was found a pencil. Observations made at the examination seem to strengthen the belief that Strindberg was buried by Andree."

Andree Outlived Strindberg.

"It seems to be proved that Andree outlived Strindberg, because some things belonging to Strindberg were found in Andree's pockets. These were recognized by Tore Strindberg as belonging to his brother.

"Examination of the boat was begun. The boat had been loaded full with equipment of the expedition. In one end of the boat there has been found the expedition's library of nautical and trigonometrical lists and a copy of the magazine Ymer, in which Andree had published an article describing his expedition of 1896 (this was prevented from starting by unfavorable weather conditions).

"Of the expedition's guns, one double-barreled rifle and a carbine were found in the boat, and the other carbine was found beside Andree. Examination of the boat continues."

COALITION IN SENATE CARRIES ON OUTSIDE

Progressives and Democrats Anxious for Reelection of Norris and Walsh.

BORAH CAPTAIN TO WIN

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The political alignment that has obtained in the Senate is continuing through the congressional campaign, a study of the campaign plans of the three groups reveals.

Instead of it being the usual fight between the Republicans and Democrats it is a fight, and is to continue so, between the Democratic-Progressive coalition and the Republicans, or better, the administration forces. It would seem to be another definite step in that permanent political realignment which prognosticators have been forecasting for so long, but have yet to see go through a campaign.

In the past coalitionists and insurgents have always scattered for their party banners at election time and the fact that they have done so has been the occasion of much scoffing and ridicule in the Republican press.

Definite Coalition Seen.

In so far as plans of Democrats and Progressives have shaped up for the present campaign, however, there is a definite coalition. No such coalescence is being advertised. In fact, as the campaign progresses plans of leaders may go awry, but for the present at least the coalition is functioning just as it did in the Senate.

This statement is based on the fact that Democratic leaders do not plan to give former Senator Hitchcock, Democratic senatorial nominee in Nebraska, any assistance; neither do they intend to help Senator Borah's Democratic opponent in Idaho, or Senator McMaster's in South Dakota.

Progressives Want Walsh.

On the other hand, Progressives are not only pulling for, but are prepared to help, if need be, Senator Walsh, Democratic candidate in Montana, against the Republican nominee, Justice Galen.

These are the only four States in which Progressives, either from the Republican or Democratic camp, face election. There is a sort of near-Progressive up in Oklahoma in the person of Senator Pine, or rather he was mad at the Administration for a long time when the Senate was in session and voted with Progressives most of the time. He is not considered one of the Progressive group, however, and quite likely Democrats will try to defeat him with former Senator Gore.

There is no secret in political circles here that the Progressives and Democrats are intensely interested both in the reelection of Norris and Walsh. And while such Progressives as Senator Borah are not publicly discussing the situation there is no doubt in the minds of his friends that should the campaign so shape up that he can be of assistance to Walsh he would not hesitate to go into the State and campaign for him. This, of course, would be a clear cut and seemingly irreparable break with the Administration.

Nebraska Case Embarrassing.

The case of Norris and Hitchcock is right embarrassing to the Democrats.

The defeat of Norris would eliminate Mr. Hoover's principal hair shirt. Norris, reelected, will harass the President ten times more than Hitchcock would be able to do. And there is no difference between the two men in the matter of principles. And to all intents and purposes Norris is more regularly Democratic than many of those going under the name.

In the case of Idaho it would, of course, be foolish for the Democrats to pay anybody's railroad fare to help Borah's opponent.

In South Dakota there is not much choice between Senator McMasters and Gov. Bulow in so far as the Democrats are concerned. They are of the same ilk. The Progressives, however, want McMasters returned, and he is incidentally their hardest job. If South Dakota Hoover Republicans go over to Bulow, and there is no reason why they should not do so, and the other factional strife continues in the Republican ranks in that State, McMasters is a goner.

POLICE HINT JUSTICE WENT INTO HIDING

Crater Told Secretary of Plans and Extracted Secrecy Pledge.

WITNESS NOW MISSING

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Evidence uncovered in the last few days led official investigators today to the belief that Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater, missing since August 6, deliberately dropped out of sight.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney disclosed that Joseph Mara, the justice's confidential attendent, who is also missing now, told detectives Judge Crater destroyed some personal papers before he left, told him he was going, and pledged him to secrecy.

In Justice Crater's apartment in lower Fifth avenue, detectives found his watch and other monogrammed jewelry, the police commissioner said, and other evidence, which he did not make public, that identification marks had been removed from the justice's clothing.

Mara Collects Mail.

"I am going up Westchester Way (Westchester County is just north of New York City) and I don't want you to tell a single soul about it," is what Justice Crater told Mara, Commissioner Mulrooney said.

From the time Justice Crater disappeared until three days ago, Mara called daily at the Crater apartment and collected his employer's mail, Mulrooney said.

But today Mara also was misisng and the police could not locate Frederic Johnson, Crater's secretary. Mara, the son of a Tammany leader, dropped out of sight three days ago, police said.

Wagner Not to Join Hunt.

Although Justice Crater's relatives have not requested such action, Commissioner Mulrooney assigned three more detectives to the search today. A fourth has been engaged in a quiet search for nearly a month.

When Senator Robert F. Wagner, with whom the missing justice shared offices, returned from Europe today he indicated he would not throw himself into the search.

Instead, he denied Justice Crater ever had been his law partner and said he knew almost nothing about his personal or business affairs.

Senator Hawes Refuses To Run Again, Report

St. Louis, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Post Dispatch today says United States Senator Harry B. Hawes, of Missouri (Democrat), will not be a candidate to succeed himself in 1932. The senator made this known, the paper said, in letters to personal and political friends in Missouri.

Senator Hawes has accepted the salaried presidency of a nature conservation commission, which is now being formed by Joseph P. Knapp, of New York, multimillionaire magazine publisher. The commission, the paper says, will be endowed to the extent of about $10,000,000. Senator Hawes has informed his friends he expects to make formal announcement of his acceptance of the position at the Democratic platform convention in Jefferson City, Mo., Tuesday.

fly from these buildings during the entire span of the celebration in 1932.

The Bicentennial Commission is now striving to determine which portrait of George Washington, of the many in existence, bears the closest resemblance, and is also attempting to discover some heretofore unpublished letters of Washington, many of which are known to be in existence. The painting of Washington finally selected will have the most extensive poster circulation ever accorded a picture, it is said.

Special attention is to be given activities appropriate for the participation of the various women's organizations throughout the country. Complete programs, depicting the life, character and achievements of George Washington have been prepared by Mrs. Dickinson Sherman, one of the presidential commissioners of the bicentennial, for use by women's organizations during 1932.

Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, of Harvard, a member of the commission, has been designated to check the historical correctness of all printed material. Dr. John C. Fitzpatrick, of the Library of Congress, editor of "Washington Diaries," has been authorized to prepare the work of 25 volumes of Washington's writings. The first volume is expected to be ready this December.

Ocean Hop Planned As Legal Fog Lifts

Boyd and Connor Prepare for Proposed Flight to England.

Montreal, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The legal fog which had held them earthbound for several days lifted today and Capt. J. Errol Boyd, Canadian flier, and Lieut. Harry P. Connor, navigator, laid new plans for their proposed flight to England in the old transatlantic monoplane Columbia.

John O'Brien, backer of the flight, arranged to post a bond and lift a writ of attachment obtained by Roger Q. Williams,as agent for its owner, Charles A. Levine.

Boyd and O'Connor have decided to break their flight at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, instead of continuing without a stop to London, as they originally planned. They also decided to strike straight out across the north Atlantic to the steamer lane, instead of following the Great Circle route, and then follow the steamer track on to the Irish coast.

Attorney, Sued for Balm, Asserts Woman Proposed

Filing one of the briefest pleas ever recorded in the District Supreme Court, Edward E Brown, 42-year-old Government attorney, yesterday answered the $10,000 suit for breach of promise recently brought against him by Norma L. Chetham, of Third street northwest near E street.

Brown told the court that he met the woman for the first time on July 28, and that three days later he accepted her proposal of marriage. He states that the acceptance was based on the assurance of the woman that she had never been married before. Brown admits that the marriage license was obtained on August 1 and that the marriage date was set for the next day, but asserts that the bride terminated the contract when she introduced to him a 16-year-old boy she said was her son

The woman in her declaration charged that a minister had been secured and the date of marriage settled when suddenly, without cause, the bridegroom-to-be changed his mind, refusing to go through with the ceremony.

Records in the office of the clerk of the court show that at the time the license was obtained Brown, the applicant, specified that neither he nor the woman had been married previously. The records also show that the license was canceled at the request of Brown.

Policeman Lipscomb, who was in the firehouse when the alarm sounded, was riding on the rear of the engine and was thrown heavily to the ground when it overturned. He lived with his father, Harry Lipscomb, at the Scottish Rite Clubhouse in Alexandria. Police were unable to obtain the license number of the truck which forced the fire engine off the road.

FORMER PUBLISHER ESCAPES CHAIN GANG

Sent for Water, Burns, $4 Holdup Convict, Flees in Georgia.

WAS TURNED IN BY WIFE

La Grange, Ga., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Robert Elliott Burns, former Chicago publisher, who was returned to Georgia more than a year ago to finish serving a six to ten years' prison term for a $4 holdup in Atlanta, escaped from the Troup County chain gang here today.

Burns was a trusty at the camp, County Warden Harold Hardy, jr., said, and apparently walked away when he was sent for a pail of water.

Burns was sentenced to the Campbell County chain gang in March, 1922, after he and several others had been convicted of the $4 holdup, of which his share was $1.38. Less than two months later he escaped.

Nothing further was heard from him until June 26, last year, when he was arrested in Chicago, where he had become publisher of a magazine.

Chicago police said at the time of his arrest that they had been advised of Burns' Georgia criminal record by his wife, who was alleged to have "turned him in" because he transferred his affections to another woman.

Plymouth, Mass., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Four hundred passengers were marooned on the steamship Plymouth of the Nantasket Steamship Co. today when the vessel grounded on a mud flat in the harbor here. Some of the stranded passengers were said to be members of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, who have been in convention here.

After several unsuccesaful attempts, the passengers were finally transferred to a nearby wharf, where they awaited transportation to Boston.

Driver Freed by Nevitt In Truck Rider's Death

James Myers, 19, of 1414 Irving street northwest, was late yesterday afternoon absolved of all blame by Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt in the death of Austin R. ROBBER SUSPECTS GIVE UP over to Headquarters Detectives Ben Johnson and Oscar Mansfield and were taken from the District Supreme Court Building to police headquarters—directly across the street—where they were subjected to a grilling by detectives under guidance of Inspector William S. Shelby, chief of police detectives.

After the quiz, police announced that the men probably would be booked either at the First or Sixth Precinct Station Houses on charges of investigation or grand larceny. At a late hour last night no check on the sum of money in the bag had been made. Mr. Rover made none and police stated that the sum would be checked later. The bag with the money was sealed and placed in the safe at police headquarters pending audit.

Delay of the police in booking them probably means that William J. Whalen, who was arraigned in Police Court yesterday, and held under $10,000 bond in connection with the robbery, will be questioned further. It was Whalen, according to police, who tipped them off as to who committed the robbery. Whalen appeared at the offices of the dairy company Monday and, displaying a $100 bill, stated it had been given him by the two men for his silence. He stated that the men had gained entrance to the office on the pretext that Beall, a cashier, had to work overtime.

First intimation that the men were to surrender came yesterday afternoon when Mr. Rover received a telephone call from Attorney J. F. Donohue stating that the two men were in town and would be prepared to give themselves up at 5 o'clock.

Promptly at that hour Mr. Donohue and the two men appeared in Mr. Rover's office. The conference was unattended by newspapermen and the only persons present were Mr. Rover, the attorney, the two men and the detectives.

Statement by Rover.

Later Mr. Rover stated that nothing of importance had transpired.

"The men merely gave themselves up," said Mr. Rover. "They made no statement, and the only person who did any talking was Mr. Donohue, the attorney. He exhibited the bag, which he said contained all the money taken, except $500 or $600, but I did not count it. I turned the matter over to the police, so that the case can go through the proper channels."

By proper channels, referred to by Mr. Rover, is taken to mean entry of the charge on police books, arraignment in Police Court, grand jury action and trial.

Mr. Rover stated that Mr. Donohue did not disclose where the men had been since the date of the robbery, but asserted that the men's attorney had made the statement that the car in which they made their getaway had been abandoned on Staten Island, N. Y.

Mr. Rover was unable to say whether the men became panicky when the automobile broke down and were afraid they would be apprehended or whether they became conscience-stricken. "The man had nothing at all to say," Mr. Rover stated.

Procedure Held Unusual.

The procedure of surrendering to the United States attorney is most unusual in cases where no indictment has been returned, and Mr. Rover could offer no reason why the attorney should surrender the men to him instead of to the police. The prosecutor explained that in cases where an indictment has been returned it is customary to surrender defendants to his office, but he could think of no recent case in which such a step had been taken except where the defendant was under indictment.

Mr. Rover also announced that he had fixed no bond for the men, explaining that their attorney had asked none.

The robbery of the dairy company was discovered Monday morning by T. M. Radford, manager of the ice cream branch of the corporation, when he opened his office. Police were immediately called.

Easy to look at

EASY TO LOOK AT—good to look at—that's your reaction to charm and beauty. Easy to smoke—good to smoke—that's the lure of Camels. Good because of the natural mildness and fragrance of mellow tobaccos, with all the delicacy and aroma preserved by scientific skill in preparation and blending—good because there's no over-processing or doctoring—no flatness of taste.

Easy—because they are so mild and smooth that you can smoke them all the day through with never a suggestion of throat discomfort.

Notice that it's Camels now—your crowd and elsewhere—because Camels are so good to smoke.

THE HURRICANE.

The country anxiously watches the course of the hurricane that has partially wrecked the City of Santo Domingo and is now moving toward Florida. Already a fearful disaster has been wrought by winds of unprecedented force, and nothing can be done to forestall even greater calamity if the hurricane should strike the Florida coast. Mankind stands awed and appalled by such a visitation.

The destructive violence and broad sweep of a hurricane are quite beyond the feeble powers of man to mitigate or control. Suggestions that bombardments of incipient hurricanes might disperse the gathering forces are seen to be fantastic, in view of unknown origin of these storms. They gather their strength stealthily, and are already immense zones of destruction before science can locate them. The best that can be done is to build structures calculated to withstand them—and even this is a doubtful effort, seeing that in the present hurricane the winds attained velocities never heretofore recorded. If they reached 160 miles an hour, as is reported from Santo Domingo, engineering skill must revise its estimates and reinforce buildings that have been supposed to be impregnable.

The stricken regions are sending out the S O S call for help. The United States will quickly respond, even if its own shores should suffer also. The Red Cross has taken steps to assist Santo Domingo, but these measures are probably inadequate, and public contributions for hurricane relief work will be necessary. The first reports of a loss of life reaching into the hundreds are probably exaggerated, but there is no doubt whatever that a staggering calamity has occurred, in which thousands of individuals will suffer and perish unless they are immediately succored.

TRADING WITH THIEVES.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, has returned from a visit to Soviet Russia convinced that "the United States is a bunch of suckers." The senator means by this crude remark that other nations are finding new markets for their goods in Russia, and that the United States is in an unfavorable position to extend its Russia trade because of the refusal of the Government to recognize the Communist regime.

"Russia, to my mind," says Senator Wheeler, "represents the greatest potential market in the world for American-made goods. If the Russian people get into a position to buy what they need, our trade will increase immensely. What Russia wants now is credit. It will have to have long term credits."

On the same day that the senator from Montana calls his countrymen "suckers" for being suspicious of the Soviet a court in London awards a British company, which recently held a gold mining concession in Russia, damages amounting to nearly $65,000,000. The court found that the Soviet government failed to live up to its agreement, and that it permitted theft of from 30 to 40 per cent of the company's output of gold. This private concern was invited to invest in Russia under a liberal concession. But when once the investment was made the Moscow clique became hostile and allowed, if it did not actually encourage, thieves to prey upon this hated capitalistic enterprise. Now the company has a judgment for $65,000,000 that is worthless because the Soviet doesn't believe in paying its debts.

Truly, America is missing a wonderful opportunity for squandering its surplus wealth by lending it to the Communists. The United States might induce them to take great quantities of American goods if it didn't require any pay for them. All that keeps Russia from being an unlimited market is the fact that under communism the people are starving and are unable to buy the necessities of life.

In return for the tremendous shipment of American goods to Russia on credit, which Senator Wheeler visualizes, Russia would send the United States goods made by convict and slave labor and priced so low that they could be guaranteed to ruin American competitors.

By confiscating property and conscripting labor the Soviet overlords can produce heavy exports which cost them nothing. All that is needed now to make the crazy scheme a success is "credit." The real "suckers" are those Americans who rely upon the honesty of the thieves in Moscow.

MR. COOLIDGE SPEAKS.

Former President Coolidge's criticism of the Senate for intruding upon the States in the matter of investigating primary campaign expenditures will be noted by readers of The Post this morning, and will bring forth wide comment. The prestige enjoyed by Mr. Coolidge, and the force with which he expresses his opinion on this subject can not fail to impress the country with a fresh realization of the extraordinary course of the Senate. The employment of detectives by the Nye committee, followed by the employment of detectives by Mrs. Ruth McCormick to "investigate the investigators," has drawn sharp attention to the abuses that invariably occur when one branch of the Government invades the jurisdiction of another.

Mr. Coolidge questions the validity of the Nye committee as an agency appointed under the constitutional authority of the Senate to make inquiries with a view to legislation. No legislation is contemplated, and the concurrence of the House would be necessary for any legislation. But the Supreme Court has already ruled that Congress has no authority over primary campaigns or elections. These are matters for the States to regulate; and in some States there is no law regulating primaries. They are left entirely to the political parties.

The Nye committee is acting, not for purposes of possible legislation, but under the Senate's assertion that primary elections may be tainted with fraud or excessive use of money, so that a candidate elected by such means can be and should be debarred from the Senate. This assertion of the right to inquire into primaries runs contrary to the right of the States to elect senators without dictation from the Senate. The Senate's action is equivalent to setting up the claim that no State shall elect a senator without the consent of the Senate. William S. Vare was elected a senator from Pennsylvania after the people of that State were fully acquainted with the charges against him; but the Senate, in order to punish what it deemed to be the wrongful and excessive use of money in a primary campaign, deprived Pennsylvania of its senator.

Now the Senate has gone further, by instituting an espionage system over primaries in various States. It has no warrant in the Constitution for this action. It is invading the rights of the States and of the people. Mr. Coolidge points out that a tainted election can be dealt with by the Senate in a constitutional way. It is the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members, but it is not the judge of the nomination of candidates for senator, and the election of a senator is not subject to the confirmation of the Senate. A person elected to the Senate must be seated if the rights of the States are to be respected; and then, after he becomes a member of the Senate, he may be expelled if the Senate should so decide.

The Senate believes that it is supported by public opinion in investigating campaign expenditures and overruling States which have elected senators not acceptable to the Senate. But when this matter has been fully examined by the people it is not conceivable that they will sustain the Senate in what is palpably an invasion of the rights of the States.

OUT OF THE MYSTERIOUS ARCTIC.

The mystery that surrounds the Arctic regions has a powerful grip on the human imagination. The world now learns how Salomon Auguste Andree and his two companions perished 33 years ago after their balloon had crashed less than 500 miles from the North Pole and they had made an unsuccessful attempt to reach Spitsbergen over the ice floes on foot. Andree's diary contains a tale that promises to become famous in the annals of adventure.

The fate of Andree, Strindberg and Fraenkel emphasizes the horror of being wrecked in the polar regions. Their story has a dramatic touch that is lacking in even the disastrous attempts to cross the Atlantic by air. Adventurers who find graves in the sea are swallowed up along with all the evidence of their peril. But in the silent, frozen North the sea is ice, and it has a peculiar way of prolonging the struggles of marooned adventurers, and of preserving the evidence of tragedy.

The fact that the Andree party made a safe landing and then walked 300 miles across the ice floes to White Island suggests that the Arctic is not necessarily a death trap. On the other hand, the tragic end of the explorers after their heroic struggle to reach civilization reveals the hopelessness of survival in the Arctic wastes.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the noted Arctic explorer, recalls the rescue of Nobile and his party after they had been stranded on a drifting field of ice. Amundsen would not have perished, in the opinion of Mr. Stefansson, if he had reached the Far North instead of going down in the iceless waters south of the floes. It should be remembered also that Wilkins and Eielson made two forced landings on the Arctic ice, repaired their engine and flew again. Nansen and Johansen lived through an Arctic winter without provisions, except the game they were able to kill, and were rescued.

Since the brave Andree perished, Arctic exploration has become less hazardous because of the airplane and the radio. Nevertheless, flying over the polar regions is a challenge to death. The Arctic may be more "friendly" than a raging sea, but it is sufficiently merciless to appall the stoutest heart and so mysterious as to throw a nimbus of heroism over every adventurer who faces its perils.

TONGS AGREE TO ARBITRATE.

When tong warfare broke out in New York in mid-August the United States District Attorney served an ultimatum on the tongs to get together and work out a plan under which future outbreaks would be prevented. Unless this were done the district attorney promised wholesale raids in Chinese districts to search out and deport those who were in the United States unlawfully. The ultimatum had the desired effect. It resulted in the drafting and signing by representatives of six tongs of an arbitration agreement whereby orderly procedure will be substituted for gun and hatchet attacks.

The agreement stipulates that all past grievances shall be buried and a fresh start made under an arbitration board, upon which each tong will have one member and of which the Chinese Consul General is to be chairman. Any tong having a grievance will notify the board in writing which, in turn, will notify the party complained against. The matter will then be arbitrated, and if either party is dissatisfied with the ruling of the board the question will be submitted to Police Commissioner Mulrooney, whose decision will be final.

It remains to be seen whether the tongs will live up to the agreement. This is not the first time they have agreed to settle their troubles by negotiation, but invariably past agreements have been violated. The Government should keep close watch on the working of the agreement. At the first sign of a breakdown, drastic measures should be adopted to rid the country of tongmen.

SANTO DOMINGO

By SUMNER WELLES,
In a Bulletin of the Pan-American Union.

The City of Santo Domingo was the first permanent settlement in the New World. Regarding as unsuitable or unlucky the site surveyed during the course of his first visit to the island, early named Hispaniola, which occurred in December, 1492, Columbus subsequently sailed along the southern coast of the island until he reached the mouth of the Ozama River. The natural harbor thus afforded appealed to him and to his companions, and it was there that the flagship of Columbus was moored to the trunk of a large ceiba tree, which remained standing until modern times. There the colony was permanently located, and there remained for many decades the capital city of Spain's American empire. It was through Santo Domingo that all the great Spanish discoverers first passed on later expeditions. There was no great figure in the history of Spain's conquest of Mexico, Central America or South America who did not walk the same streets which we can walk today.

Halfway up the hillside, adjacent to the old city wall, there stands the palace of the Columbus family, its medieval walls hardly impaired by time, although the roof has been permitted to decay and the rooms where Diego Colon and his wife passed so many years of their life stand open to the sky. The docks and the customs houses stand just below, extending along the bank of the river. Once ashore, the traveler enters the city through one of the old city gates, still standing intact, and from there passes directly into the turmoil of the commercial quarter, which has claimed for its uses the streets and sections composing the original Santo Domingo of the sixteenth century.

Through this maze of narrow, winding streets, the tourist is suddenly brought into an open, rectangular square in the center of which is a well-kept park fringed with large shade trees and gay with the blossoms of tropical shrubs. In the center rises the monument to Columbus, the effigy of the Grand Admiral, and behind there stands in all its beauty the Cathedral of Santo Domingo, of which the foundation stones were laid in the first years of the sixteenth century, and of which the exterior, today, remains unimpaired by time or by man's desire for change. The cathedral is a striking example of a Spanish Romanesque basilica. Its western or main entrance is particularly fine, the facade decorated with frescoes which have mellowed, through exposure, to the softest tones. Just within the portal stands the tomb of Columbus, where the ashes of the discoverer of the American Continent lie encased in a small urn.

Toward the southwest, the newer residential sections, which are being rapidly developed, lie spread for some miles along the coast and on the ridge overlooking the sea. It is on the hillside commanding the harbor that the presidential mansion is situated, whence it commands as beautiful a view as can be found on the French Riviera. Clustered about are the official residences of the members of the government, and within a few years there will be built, adjacent to the government compound, the new home of the Union Club, the leading club of Santo Domingo, the new university and the Palace of Justice.

It is here, too, or on Torrecilla point, which lies to the right as one enters the mouth of the river, that the great inter-American monument to Christopher Columbus is to be built.

It is proposed that the remains of Columbus, now interred in the cathedral, be transferred to a crypt underneath the lighthouse when the monument is finally completed.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

ALL THE OLD ASK.

They do not ask us oft to share our money,
The old see little now they care to buy.
'Tis much the same with them, gray skies or sunny,
A simple fare and dress will satisfy.

It's time and thought they sigh for.
Stop to see them.
An hour with you from loneliness will free them.
They do not ask for much. They're done with pleasure,
Youth has few joys they longer wish to share.

The old have learned the emptiness of treasure,
And found that loneliness is hard to bear.
They like to be remembered and be thought of.
The little time you give them much is wrought of.

The old grandmothers and the gray grandfathers
Know well that youth is busy with its care,
But this I'm sure must be the thought that bothers:
Can it be true youth has no time to spare?
Stop in to see them. A few minutes only
Will drive away the pain of being lonely.

An Autobiography That Reveals the Work of One Kind of Parents.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

AGE 2: I have discovered that prolonged howling will win anything I desire. It is a silly practice, but anybody with good sense would employ a system that works so well.

Age 4: I have been spanked for telling stories, but today I heard Mother tell the preacher she wasn't at church Sunday because she was sick. As a matter of fact she seemed to feel especially well Sunday morning. Evidently it won't be wrong for me to lie when I get old enough.

Age 8: Today I asked Dad the meaning of "ampule" and he told me I would remember it better if I looked it up myself. He didn't know. I used to think he knew everything, but he is just a good bluffer.

Age 12: Dad said I couldn't play on the corner until bed-time and said I was impudent when I asked why. The truth is he couldn't think of any reasonable reason. He tells me I must play fair, but evidently it isn't necessary to be fair if you are the boss.

Age 15: I would like to talk over my affairs with Dad and get his advice, but I have tried several times and he doesn't seem interested. Once he said I was silly and made me feel ashamed. I'll keep my own secrets hereafter.

Age 18: Dad bawled me out today for smoking and taking a drink. He smokes all the time and I have seen him lit on lodge nights. I wonder if everybody thinks the law is made for the other fellow.

Age 24: Out of college and Dad can't support me any longer. I don't know how to do anything but teach school or do common labor. I wish Dad had shown me the necessity of learning some way to make a living.

Age 30: I want to get married, but Dad is dead and I am Mother's only support. She says she loves me too well to share me with another woman, and won't be a burden to me very long.

Age 40: I gave up all hope of marrying. Mother couldn't bear the thought of having another woman in the house, and it's all I can do to make a living for one household. She tells people I am a dutiful son and she is very proud of me.

Age 60: I am a queer old crab and know it. People seem to respect me, but I know I am a bluffer and a liar and a moral coward. Sometimes I wonder if I could have amounted to anything if I had been trained right as a kid.

THE ONCE OVER

"OH YEAH?" OR THE MENCKENS GO MOTORING.

("It seems to me that the best rule for marriage is the best rule for all human relations: be polite. I am marrying one of the politest of women and she is getting a husband whose politeness has the high polish of a mirror"—Henry L. Mencken.)

Mrs. Mencken—Henry, do be careful about your driving. You're going awfully fast.

Henry—Thanks very much for mentioning it, dear. It will give me great pleasure to slow down.

Mrs. Mencken—Are you sure we're on the right road, my dear?

Henry—Yes, thank you.

Mrs. Mencken—It seems most unfamiliar to me.

Henry—Really? I'm terribly sorry.

Mrs. Mencken—Do you remember this road coming out?

Henry—I think so, dearest, but it is very thoughtful of you to bring up the question and I appreciate it deeply.

Mrs. Mencken—Henry?

Henry—Yes ma'am.

Mrs. Mencken—You're away over in the middle of the road.

Henry—So I am. I'm much obliged for calling my attention to it.

Mrs. Mencken—Are you big headlights on, dear?

Henry—Be assured of it, my sweet.

Mrs. Mencken—They look awfully dim to me.

Henry—That's really too bad. Shall I stop at some service station and have the car equipped with larger lamps?

Mrs. Mencken — Would it be too much trouble?

Henry—None at all. I'll be glad to do it.

Mrs. Mencken—Oh, some other time will do, dear.

Henry—Let me do it now. I'd just love to.

Mrs. Mencken—No, tomorrow will do.

Henry—Just as you say.

Mrs. Mencken—Oh!

Henry—Beg pardon?

Mrs. Mencken—You nearly hit that man crossing the street

Henry—If you'll pardon my saying so, you are slightly mistaken.

Mrs. Mencken—I think not.

Henry—Very well. I apologize.

Mrs. Mencken—Look!

Henry—Look at what, if I may make so bold?

Mrs. Mencken—You just passed a sign with an arrow on it.

Henry—Dreadfully sorry.

Mrs. Mencken—It may mark the road we should take, don't you think?

Henry—Very likely, and it's really nice of you to call my attention to it. Shall I back up and peruse it?

Mrs. Mencken—If you don't mind.

Henry—I don't mind at all.

Mrs. Mencken—Really?

Henry—Really.

Motorcycle Cop (who has been following alongside and overheard the dialogue)—Pull over to the curb.

Mr. Mencken—What for, if you will pardon the question? I haven't done anything.

Cop—No, but there's something wrong with any man and wife who talk the way you two do.

FORCE OF HABIT.

It is now alleged a Tammany judge was before his appointment a prosperous bootlegger. And possibly, through force of habit, he never could resist "cutting" his sentences.

The inference is that at least one judge got his appointment on the recommendation that he was "just off the boat."

The bridge whist endurance contest is the latest sign of mental decline manifesting itself in this country. You just see how many days and nights you can sit at a bridge table yearning to murder your partner. And on about the fifth day you give in to the impulse.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Bear Conspiracy Charged by Observer Who Blames Wreckers for Deliberately Destroying Values.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Apropos of the letter of Mr. Emmons, of Boston, in your paper, calling attention to the bitterly unfair methods of the Democrats to discredit President Hoover, contrasted with his nonpartisan and patriotic efforts to rescue the country from the disastrous October stock market crash, permit me to contribute an observation of my own.

Your readers will easily recall the efforts the President made to lessen the force of the hurricane that swept the business world by calling the leaders together for a gigantic cooperative effort. So successful was this effort that business psychology changed its tone, and the stock market made a splendid recovery within five months after the crash. In April United States Steel was quoted at 198¾ from its low of 150. American Telegraph & Telephone reached 274¼ from its low of 193¼, and similarly recoveries were made throughout the market.

Your readers will also recall the long and pestiferous efforts of the coalition in the Senate to delay action on the tariff bill. The enfeebled and harassed business world was worn out by the protracted delay. Business men could not order new goods because of the uncertainty as to price. Nevertheless, the market struggled through the conspiracy to delay, only to receive in June one of the most dastardly blows below the belt ever conceived by mortal man.

A big bear clique was organized in Wall street, and on the very day President Hoover signed the tariff bill began operations. Three of the most popular and prosperous stocks in the market began to go down, due to organized, persistent selling. The thing wriggled through the market like a venomous snake, striking with its fangs Warner Pictures, General Motors and Du Pont. Demoralization set in, and by May 1 the entire recovery was swept away, leaving the markets of the entire country depressed to the tune of more than fifty billions. Then came the drought, like Cardinal Woolsey's "killing frost," to add misery to what had been a deliberate scheme to wreck values. With the drought as their aid the conspirators are now "covering" at their leisure, reaping rich rewards.

Big bears, most of whom own control of the stock they attacked, never parting with a share of their own stock, conducted their operations through henchmen in the brokers' offices. The profits of these big bears will be used to purchase more stock in the companies they attacked, and it is safe to say one of these companies (Warner Pictures) will pass entirely into the hands of the conspirators.

Can any of your readers cite a more dastardly conspiracy in history? The fate of Edward Everett Hale's "Man Without a Country" should be meted out to them.

Congress should investigate the bear conspiracy, as suggested by Hon. Will Wood. Stringent legislation should be enacted against short selling by those deeply interested in the stock of a company. The State of New York already makes such doings a penal offense, but what can New York do in tracing up and punishing such conspirators? A. T. T.

Must Get Official Consent to Reduce Prices—A Funny People.

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: We Americans are a funny people. In Washington we have a company engaged in the manufacture of gas. It has the facilities for manufacturing a much larger quantity than the present demand calls for. It conceived the idea that reducing the cost to the consumer would create a greater demand for its product, so it proposed to make such a reduction. The consumers were to be the beneficiaries, but what of that? According to our system of "government by the people, for the people" the company must get the consent of certain men called a "commission" before it can make the reduction.

This is what is called "progress." If we keep on a merchant who finds himself overstocked with some lines of merchandise, and who wants to save himself from a total loss, will have to go, hat in hand, before some "commission" and get its consent before he can reduce prices.

ONE OF THEM.

Higher Street Car Fares Prove a Boomerang, and Vox Populi Says, "I Told You So."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now comes the Washington Railway & Electric Co. with its early showing that the increasing of fares has resulted in a serious loss of earnings. Thus is verified what Vox Populi and Old Subscriber and all that bunch asserted.

Price fixing in the management of big business is a ticklish operation. The price that is not properly fixed may give the venerable law of demand and supply an awful jolt if it gets a good opening. That is just what happened in this case. The price of a street car ride should have been lowered instead of raised.

GLADSTONE'S SMILE.

The death has taken place at Broadmoor criminal asylum, at the age of 73, of William Henry Townsend, who was convicted in May, 1893, of sending a threatening letter to Mr. Gladstone, then prime minister, says the London Times. Townsend, who was a gunsmith, wrote Mr. Gladstone a threatening letter and followed this up by journeying to London with a loaded revolver to carry out his threat. He stood about in Downing street until the prime minister appeared from No. 10, but he apparently lost heart at the last moment. He was arrested soon afterward, tried at the central criminal court on a charge of sending the threatening letter, found guilty but insane, and sentenced to detention during the queen's pleasure. He was discharged twice, in 1903 and 1927, but only for short periods. In a period of sanity he told a friend that Mr. Gladstone smiled at him and that he had not the heart to shoot.

HUGHES TO BE GIVEN FRATERNITY'S BADGE

Chief Justice Will Be Honored by Delta Upsilon at Banquet Tonight.

HYDE WILL ALSO SPEAK

A jeweled badge of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity tonight will be presented to Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes at a banquet to be held at the Wardman Park Hotel, where delegates from 55 collegiate chapters and more than 100 alumni are attending the ninety-sixth annual convention of the fraternity.

Fifty years ago Chief Justice Hughes atteded his first Delta Upsilon convention as a delegate from the chapter at Brown University. During that convention Mr. Hughes drew up a resolution on behalf of the fraternity indorsing the candidacy of James A. Garfield, then president of Delta Upsilon, for the presidency of the United States.

Chief Justice Hughes since has served three terms as president of Delta Upsilon. During his administration he signed the charters of twenty-five chapters of the fraternity.

Besides Chief Justice Hughes, banquet speakers include the following alumni of the fraternity: Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture; Percival D. Hall, president of Gallaudet College, and John L. O'Brian, assistant to the Attorney General. Representative George R. Stobbs will act as toastmaster. Warren C. DuBois, an officer of the fraternity, will present the badge to the Chief Justice.

Business sessions and sight-seeing tours marked the programs of the convention. Yesterday morning delegates and alumni attended a White House reception at which time the convention photograph was taken. Yesterday afternoon a trip to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis was followed by a dinner and entertainment at the Annapolis Roads Club. Special receptions are being given for wives and daughters of Delta Upsilon Alumni in attendance at the convention which ends tomorrow night.

New York Greets European Jurists

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—A municipal welcome marked by the usual accompaniment of crowds and noise and speeches was extended today to a group of distinguished European jurists here to attend a conference on international law.

After each guest of the city received a medal commemorating the event, the lawyers were luncheon guests of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York.

Ten of the jurists, including Sir John Simon, of Great Britain, chairman of the Indian Statutory Commission, received honorary degrees today as doctors of law at Columbia University.

Seven Scottish and English barristers, two French and one German were awarded the degrees. The degrees were conferred by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia.

MRS. O'NEILL JOINS BATTLE FOR SENATE

Will Oppose Ruth McCormick as Independent in Illinois Race.

BACKED BY DRY CAUSE

"Several days ago announced its intention of supporting an independent candidate for senator who would run on a dry platform if any such candidate of satisfactory standing and State-wide reputation should enter the contest. Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill certainly fulfills all of those requirements, and unless unexpected developments occur, I expect we will indorse her candidacy."

Mrs. McCormick tonight issued this statement from Springfield:

"The filing of a third ticket in the Illinois senatorial race is important only in the respect that it strikes a blow at the cause of law enforcement in Illinois. It is calculated to split the vote against the Democratic candidate, who stands for nullification and violation of the laws enforcing prohibition and nullification and violation of the Constitution of the United States. The Democrats have declared against majority rule in Illinois, and the third candidate now entering the race is likewise opposed to majority rule. I accept the issue.

"I am for law enforcement as pledged in the national Republican platform and unanimously adopted in the convention in Springfield on August 22 and as advocated by President Hoover in his inaugural address of March 4, 1929, in which he said:

"'If citizens do not like a law, their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violations; their right is openly to work for its repeal.'

"My Democratic opponent would encourage violation of the law and the Constitution, and the third candidate now in the race disagrees with the President when he says citizens have a right to work openly for repeal. I disagree with the two positions taken by my opponents and agree with both of the principles advocated by Mr. Hoover. I am a dry. I am a Republican. As a matter of fact, Mrs. O'Neill indorses my position as a Republican up to the point where I indorse the fundamental American and Republican doctrine of majority rule. On that question she disagrees with me. As an American I believe in majority rule on any or all questions.

"On that basis I cheerfully leave my candidacy in the hands of the voters."

Kraft, office secretary, in charge. The office was planned as a feature of the drive for the 1932 international convention, but it was decided to make it a permanent institution.

Women's Drill Team Performs for Pershing

(Associated Press.)

Gen. John J. Pershing, retired, called on President Hoover yesterday and upon leaving the White House his attention was attracted by the young women's drill team from Des Moines, Iowa, whi won a prize at the Baltimore convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The women, dressed in white, held an impromptu drill for the former commander of the A. E. F. while waiting to see the President themselves. At the end of the brief maneuver their drill captain saluted the general who returned it and commented: "That was fine. No wonder you won the prize. I would have given it to you myself."

Child Health Data Saved From Blaze

Salvaged Bureau Reports Are Being Prepared for Coming Conference.

(Associated Press.)

Investigations on three branches of the White House child health conference, salvaged from Saturday's fire in the Children's Bureau by a narrow margin, yesterday were being rushed into final report form.

Each represented a year's study of a separate field under direction of a Children's Bureau official. One on child delinquency, was prepared by Miss Katherine F. Lenroot; Miss Agnes K. Hanna worked on child dependency, and child workers were dealt with by Miss Ellen Nathalie Matthews.

Had this material been destroyed, it could not posibly have been duplicated in time for the conference which convenes November 17. Members of the bureau staff, knowing its value, disregarded fire warnings to save it. Work has continued at top speed since the fire to get the studies summarized and in form for removal to a safer spot than the new quarters of the bureau—another temporary wartime structure.

Pick the MOTOR FUEL that's picked by men who know motors

Assume, if you want to, that the gasoline you are now using is the best you can buy. —Or assume that if it's not the best, that "all gasolines are about the same anyway"—so what's the difference.

Then come down with us to the Washington Cadillac Company, 1220-1228 22nd Street N. W.. We won't look at the shining new sixteen-cylinder Cadillacs and the LaSalles in the showroom, because we want to know what happens to motors that use ESSO exclusively, day in and day out, year after year.

So we go in back where tools are lying round, motors apart, cars with their wheels off. We ask for the Manager of the Maintenance Department, Mr. V. S. Little. He knows motors from the inside out. We ask him if it's true that all gasolines are alike in their effect on engines. He says, "We recommend that ESSO is the best suited fuel for the modern high-compression engine."

They all prefer ESSO. "Why?" we ask each one. They give many reasons for their preference:—

"ESSO for no carbon."
"No knocks with ESSO."
"Power, that's ESSO."
"ESSO's better on the hills."
"—and reliable in traffic."

"Trouble-shooter" J. H. Cullinane thinks these reasons don't include enough—a good motor fuel must have many qualities. "ESSO gives best all-around performance," he sums them all up.

And that's what men who know motors actually said at the Washington Cadillac Company when we recently interviewed them. 18 other car dealers and demonstrators in Washington feel the same way about ESSO. Isn't it wise for you to use the motor fuel that's picked by men who know motors? Try a tankful of ESSO today.

Standard Oil Company of New Jersey

6 mechanics, white-coated and efficient, work with Mr. Little. The automobile business knows them as "trouble-shooters" because their job is to find the sick spots in ailing motors. Most of them drive their own cars too. We ask them about gasolines.

The public too votes ESSO better. Here's how we asked 1000 Washington motorists, "What gasoline do you use?" More of them named ESSO than any other gasoline or motor fuel sold in Washington. Car dealers have since proved this young lady was right when she said, "I use ESSO because it always runs my motor quieter."

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Reserve Board Honor Will Keep Family in Washington.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE news that Mr. Eugene Meyer, jr., is about to be appointed governor of the Federal Reserve Board is good news, indeed, to Washington, for it removes the possibility of our losing one of the most stimulating and interesting families ever associated with the official group. When Mr. Meyer resigned as commissioner of the Farm Loan Board last year, it was to devote himself to his business interests. These are centered in New York. The permanent home of the Meyers is at Mount Kisco in nearby Westchester County. And their playgrounds are scattered from the High Sierras of California to the medieval towns of Europe. So it looked for a time as if the Capital would see little of them. Moreover, there was much talk for a time of the possibility of Mr. Meyer's being appointed United States Ambassador to Germany, a post involving long residence abroad.

However, word now comes from "authoritative administration circles" of Mr. Meyer's appointment to the Federal Reserve Board, although formal announcement waits upon the resignation of Mr. Edmund Platt, vice governor, who, it is understood, is to retire from public life to accept an important position with a business firm with headquarters in New York.

This is necessary because both Mr. Platt and Mr. Meyer hail from New York and the Federal Reserve act stipulates that no two members may come from the same Federal Reserve district. However, although he will be appointed to fill Mr Platt's place, Mr. Meyer is scheduled to be a successor as governor of the board to Mr. Roy A. Young, who resigned to become governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

The Meyers first came into prominence in Washington in the Wilsor administration when Mr. Meyer was made director of the War Finance Corporation, and they have had prominent part in activities, social and political, in the Capital through the succeeding administrations.

Mrs. Meyer is a shining example of the "idle rich." She is artist, writer, politician, wife, mother—and works at all these jobs. She takes the dual role of wife and mother seriously and has personally superintended the upbringing of her five children, the oldest of whom, Miss Florence Meyer, made her debut in Washington a year or two ago. She's the most practical sort of a politician, a power in the party councils of Westchester County. Yet she finds time to continue the development of the artistic side of her nature.

Not only is Mrs. Meyer known to connoisseurs as a discriminating collector of Chinese porcelains and paintings, but she has written a brochure on "Chinese Paintings as Reflected in the Thought and Art of Li Lung-Mien 1070-1106," which is not only accepted as authoritative but which is written with a great deal of charm and literary ability. She has an agent in China who is always on the lookout for good pieces, so that her collection is continually being augmented. Mrs. Meyer's love of art and knowledge thereof was developed under the happiest auspices, for she helped in the assembling of the famous Freer collection, now permanently housed in Washington.

For the last two years or more Mr. and Mrs. Meyer have made their home, when in Washington, in the house in Crescent place, which was built by the late Mr. Henry White. It was in this mansion, placed at the Government's disposal by Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, that the President-elect of Brazil stayed while in Washington as the guest of the Nation.

The thought of losing the Platts is the one fly in the ointment in connection with Mr. Meyer's appointment. They have been long in Washington—Mr. Platt was in Congress for many years before being appointed to the Federal Reserve Board—and have many friends who will be loath to see them go. Mrs. Platt is one of the most active and interested members of the Congressional Club. Their daughter, Miss Katherine Platt, made her debut at the club in the winter before last.

One Dies, Two Hurt In Argentine Riot

Police Clash With Students in March Toward State House.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—One person was killed and two were wounded tonight in a clash between police and several thousand students who marched toward the government house. The students formed without police permission and then began a march through the principal thoroughfare, Avenida de Mayo.

They had nearly reached the Plaza de Mayo, where the government house stands, when they were blocked by a force of mounted police. The police charged three times to break up the demonstration, but some students broke through the barrier and reached the Plaza de Mayo. Then shots were fired.

After the shooting the shouting students left the Plaza de Mayo and marched down the Calle Florida, shopping center. They reformed their procession and marched without incident. After a few moments on the Calle Florida the students returned to the Plaza de Mayo, carrying aloft handkerchiefs soaked in the blood of their companions who had fallen and shouting "Assassins!" When they reached the plaza a new demonstration was headed by Dr. Alfredo Palacios, dean o the Law School of the University of Buenos Aires.

$5,000 Damage Done When Wheat and Equipment on Farm Are Consumed.

Special to The Washington Post.

Ellerton, Md., Sept. 4.—Fire originating from friction in a thrashing machine this afternoon destroyed 30 tons of hay, a barn, garage, machinery shed and about 1,250 bushels of wheat on the farm of John W. Warrenfeltz, near this town. The flames spread to a grass field and then to nearby woods, and the efforts of more than a score of neighbors were required to extinguish tehm. O northeast wind saved Mr. Warrenfeltz's home.

Mr. Warrenfeltz was harvesting the last day of his wheat crop when sparks leaping from the machine ignited a large straw pack and spread to the buildings. His livestock was saved.

The total loss was estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000.

Man Sets Fire to Home; Dies; Wife, Son Hurt

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Dumont Lotz, 65, of Muncie, at one time a widely known educator, set fire to his home at Roverton, near here, today and was burned to death. Mrs. Lotz was seriously burned. John, 23, a son, also suffered injuries. Lotz was said to have become demented as a result of an extended illness.

John Lotz discovered his father scattering gasoline on the floor and igniting it. He grappled with him unsuccessfully and soon the entire house, a brick structure, was aflame. Mrs. Lotz escaped by leaping from a bedroom window. Lotz had taught in several West Coast universities. He returned to his birthplace in Royerton several years ago.

Slain Man Identified As New York Gangster

St. Paul, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Belief that the body of a man found buried near Owatonna last week was that of William Goldman, alias Billy Stone, New York gangster, was expressed here today by R. E. Mason, manager of a private detective agency.

Mason said his belief was based on information received from underworld sources, but said it was impossible to prove the body was that of Stone because of its condition. Stone, according to Mason's informant, was a close friend of Sammy Stein, Minneapolis and Kansas City gangster, who was slain with two companions near here several weeks ago.

Dividend Rate Cut By New York Bank

Manufacturers Trust Co.'s Action First Taken by Larger Institutions.

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Wall street has become accustomed to dividend reductions or omissions this year, but pricked up its ears today on the announcement of reduction of the annual rate paid by the Manufacturers Trust Co. of New York from $6 to $4 a share.

This was the first dividend reduction to appear among the more important bank stocks, and was explained by Nathan S. Jones, chairman of the board, as due to the low interest rates prevailing. Fears that the sharp reduction in interest rates this year might affect bank dividends was a factor in the sharp break in bank stocks in June, carrying them below the levels of last November. The June 30 bank statements, however, did not indicate any great curtailment in earnings, and very few dividend cuts are regarded in the financial district as likely. Increased deposits have in a measure compensated for the lower interest rates. Furthermore, banks have reduced interest paid on deposits.

The Manufacturers Trust Co., while not ranking with the very largest of the Wall street banks, has total resources of more than $500,000,000, and in that respect is among the first half dozen. It has nearly 50 branches in the greater New York area. The Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation is one of its largest stockholders.

V. F. W. DELEGATES ILL AFTER LUNCHEON

Election Postponed Because So Many Are Stricken on Leaving Annapolis.

CAPITAL BAND WINNER

Baltimore, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The statement that 500 or more members of Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies' Auxiliary were ill from food poisoning following a luncheon yesterday at the Naval Academy at Annapolis was made today at a session of the auxiliary by the president, Mrs. Bessie Hanken, of Revere, Mass.

Because so many delegates were ill the election of officers scheduled for today was postponed. Among members of the auxiliary ill was Mrs. Julia Pitcock, of Ohio, chairman of the resolutions committee. Paul Wolman, Baltimore attorney, who is national senior vice commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, also was treated by a physician.

Visiting and local physicians were kept busy all night and today treating the sufferers, but none was believed to be in a serious condition. Some had ptomaine poisoning, and others just had the stomach ache, the doctors said. Among those known to be ill were 91 members of the auxiliary, some of them elderly.

Luncheon Served on Grounds.

Three steamers took 3,000 or more of the delegates and visitors to Annapolis yesterday, but a number of others remained in Baltimore. The luncheon was served on the Naval Academy grounds after an inspection of the academy. No criticism of the food served was forthcoming, all blaming the unwisdom of mixing crabs and ice cream. An investigation by the Annapolis post was started, however.

The blight failed to prevent sessions of the veterans, who heard an address by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, and approved several resolutions.

A hospital erected by the auxiliary at the Veterans' National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., was officially presented to the V. F. W. Mrs. Hanken, who supervised erection of the building, which cost $31,000, made the presentation.

Legislation Is Urged.

Resolutions approved included one to submit a petition to Congress requesting immediate legislation for relief of veterans having foreign service disabilities not heretofore recognized, and one asking passage of a bill by Congress increasing the allowance of Civil War veterans.

The list of prizes for drum and band corps competition last night was announced tonight as follows:

Bands—First prize, $250, Washington, D. C., overseas unit; second prize, Warren, Ohio.

Women's drill team—First, Steiner-Nairn Drill Team of St. Paul, Minn.; second, Des Moines, Iowa.

Men's drill team—Akron, Ohio, only entry.

Among those reported suffering from food poisoning was T. L. Clinton, of 1635 Wisconsin avenue northwest, Washington.

Helen Kane's $50,000 Injunction Terminated

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Helen Kane, baby talk actress, can do anything she wants to with $50,000 she received from her friend, Murray Posner, shortly before his dress firm went bankrupt.

On August 11 an order was issued directing Miss Kane and the dress company to show why she should not be restrained from withdrawing the money from a bank, and a temporary injunction was issued forbidding withdrawal. Today the injunction was terminated. Miss Kane said she had given Posner the money to invest for her and that he failed to do so and returned it. The transaction had nothing to do, she said, with the affairs of the dress concern.

WANTED:

Fifty forward looking young men who have faith and are looking to the future to make real their "air castles."

The New Business Department of the Washington Gas Light Company has just experienced the best month in the history of the Company since it was founded 82 years ago. We believe that even better months are ahead this Fall.

In accordance with our expansion program 50 new salesmen will be added to the personnel of the New Business Department. Men who are looking for new worlds to conquer, men who will welcome responsibility, men who have the will to succeed are invited to apply. These men will enter a field of endeavor which is crowded with Romance and which will play a thrilling role in the development of this great country in the next 25 years.

All we ask is that applicants be men of character and that they give us 2% "I will." We will accept the challenge of our part and develop the other 98%.

Now is no time for leaders to falter. Men of vision and courage will be rewarded. That giant, National Prosperity, is about to wake from his fitful dream. Stretching, he will soon be on his way. The people of America are looking to our leaders and Washington is going to be in the vanguard of returning National Prosperity.

GEORGE A. G. WOOD, President.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"VIRGO."

IF September 5 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

Your life will be affected by more favorable astrological forces on this date. Considerable physical activity is indicated, short trips and visits will be made. Unexpected developments which need cause no worry, as you will be given wisdom and means to handle them.

The child born on this September 5 will be endowed with a quiet, yet ambitious, persevering and persistent spirit. It will win through will power and force, more than persuasive methods. It will never forget an injury and will seldom renew a broken-off friendship.

Men and women born on a September 5 will have minds, simple, confiding and sweet. You will never discard your enthusiasms and make-believes, and you hang on to your illusions, if they make you happy. In your chivalry, you are a modern Don Quixote, and you are the fairy prince or princess who goes to the rescue of the oppressed, be they good or bad. If you champion a cause, you fight with heavy artillery, which metaphorically speaking, usually smashes down the walls of opposition. You are always ready to pour oil on troubled waters and you never do it in an oily manner.

You are an honest, plain-spoken person, with the sturdy qualities of an oak. You aim to give a square deal to all the world, which makes life better worth the living, both for "the other fellow" and for yourself. You are not stubborn in a petty way, but in big things, you are not easily turned back. You are sincere and honest in your likes and dislikes, although you do not form hasty conclusions. You do not judge before you understand. Nature has given you a pleasant, hearty laugh; it is neither a guffaw, cackle or a wheeze. You are a chronic smiler, too, and it is the passport which will admit you everywhere and to all hearts.

Monetary success is likely to be of an uncertain nature, due chiefly to your own indifference to it, and to your generosity, when you have worldly goods to share.

Successful people born September 5: 1—John G. Carlisle—Secretary of Treasury under Cleveland.

2—Myron W. Whitney—singer.

3—Edward H. House—author and journalist.

4—Amy M. Cheney Beach—composer.

5—Cornelius Vanderbilt — capitalist.

6—Joseph Bucklin Bishop—writer.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

A dark gray cloth makes this smart coat, intricately cut and lavishly trimmed with gray astrakhan. (Courtesy of Martial et Armand, Paris.)

Paris, Sept. 4.

SCIENCE is able to explain so much away these days—many of the perplexities that have puzzled thinkers for centuries, many of the things we have taken more or less for granted for these same centuries.

Why we behave like human beings, why a flower has the color it has and the odor it has, and to what extent this assists the insects and birds—and ever so many more such things. Scientific books are not the dull tones that they once were; indeed, many of them are so fascinating one is totally unable to put them down until the last chapter is finished!

But I wonder if any one has ever investigated the reason for the astonishing beauty of color and delicacy of design found in endless variety in the plumage of birds? I have never found much written on the subject, have you?

I'm musing on feathers today because they have been brought to my attention, due to the vogue for them, which has been imminent but not important for several seasons. But in the fall collections one finds them rather more often . . . flat feather trimming on the smartest small hats, exquisite embroideries combined with colored feathers, shoes partially or entirely covered with feathers.

And as if nature had not already been kindly enough with her varieties of plumage, where the couturier does not find something that exactly suits his design, he achieves it with the aid of paint or dyes!

I always wondered when somebody would come along with an idea that would enable me to use up all the darned little fur pieces—old fur collars, rests-of-what-used-to-be-a-lot-of-dollars-worth-of-coat — you know what I mean. Well, the vogue for smart accessories made out of fur has more than answered wonderings! This winter you are going to see entire belts made out of flat fur. Jewelry honestly! Bracelets and necklaces—tiny fur hats of the beret style, and all sorts of things like that. Knowing this to be a fact, I fixed up a leaflet for you telling how to go about making your old fur scraps over into new, modern accessories. Don't you think you'd better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it? You might be sorry if you didn't!

• • • •

Just as if I was sorry I didn't grab Martial et Armand's lovely gray woolen coat, which I sketched for you today—because while you can always have things made to order, sometimes there is an interesting price at sale time! It was such a lovely dark gray material and interestingly cut, and on top of that trimmed with dark and light astrakhan, and altogether that's about the smartest combination of things-that-are-going-to-be-smart that anybody could find for a winter coat!

Cunning buttons made of woven leather thongs are the latest wrinkle in buttonland, and when they are of two tones and match the mixed material of the tailleur or the ensemble they are on, they are really very effective!

And you will find the last word in style gossip in the weekly Dare Fashion Letter, which appears in The Sunday Washington Post every week. Be sure to look for it.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

POLENTA.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

The dish which is common in Italy differs little except in name from corn meal mush though it is served in different ways. Sometimes cheese is added to the cooking. Polenta is often reheated with tomato sauce or a meat gravy left over from a meal, or with meat gravy made from a small amount of meat bought for the purpose or with half tomato sauce and half meat gravy. In any case the dish is improved by sprinkling the cooked polenta with cheese. When the polenta is reheated in gravy it is well to cut it into small pieces in order that the gravy may be well distributed through the dish

Sauce for Polenta.

Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
One cup of strained tomato juice.
Salt and pepper.

Melt the butter, cook the flour thoroughly in it, add the tomato juice and seasonings, and cook until smooth, stirring constantly.

MORE ABOUT GERANIUMS.

A GREAT many people, judging from the letters I receive, do not understand that geraniums must have their growth retarded in all cases for winter flowering. When they are starved and potbound, the strength of the plant all goes into the blooms. Repot them and they stop flowering at once and devote their energy to developing growth.

If you keep shifting the plants into larger pots you will soon have a window full of growth, very soft and luxuriant, apparently, but no flowers, except possibly weak trusses on the end of stalks a foot long. This result, of course, is not attractive.

Another trouble with soft, growthy specimens (besides failure to bloom) is that geranium plants in this condition are likely to be covered with insects, especially green flies. These little pests, once they gain a foothold, will soon attack every plant in the house.

If any of my readers feel that they haven't space or time to devote to raising young plants from cuttings and are anxious to have their old plants flower, let them carefully and surely remove about 4 inches of the old wood from every shoot. This will start the plants into growth and will form a new growth, which will likely produce some flowers, but even with this method old plants will never flower so freely as do young plants, and the flowers that are put forth are likely to be rather indifferent.

For some unknown reason single varieties are always much better bloomers than the double-flowering sorts.

Geraniums require much less care than the majority of house plants. Give them plenty of ventilation, a sunny window, some heat (it really does not seem to matter a great deal how much—68 degrees is sufficient) —and water them daily and sparingly. These truly homey little plants are sure to respond to such treatment and will favor you with blossoms throughout the entire winter season.

While I have mentioned the pot culture of geraniums in this article I do not know of any blooming plant that is more suitable for the indoor window box. In these days of apartments and small rooms space is valuable and the window box solves the question of a few house plants in a practical way.

Of course, a window box of geraniums, or, in fact, any other blooming plant, must have a sunny window—which means a window facing south. A box of pink single geraniums lends a decorative and satisfying note of color to a room, and a ticking clock, an open fire and a few growing plants always make a room more livable.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

GOOFUS ANIMALS

The Fable of the Goofus Ibis

A sacred Goofus Ibis once
Lived by the River Nile
He never was known to laugh or grin
Or even crack a smile.

They tried the comic strips on him,
But sadder he became.
They told the latest jokes to him,
The result was just the same.

And then one day he saw himself
Reflected in a nearby pool.
Did he laugh? I'll say he did;
They call him now, "The Laughing Fool!"

Moral: The loudest laughs are those you hand yourself!

Kreuger Gets Interest In Ericsson Phone, Hint

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Reports in Wall street today said that Kreuger interests have obtained virtual control of the I. M. Ericsson Telephone Co., one of the largest manufacturers of telephone equipment in Europe and operator of telephone concessions in Europe and South America.

Ivar Kreuger, who controls the Kreuger & Toll Co., has been elected a director of Ericsson, having purchased his Ericsson stock from K. F. Wincrantz, who resigned as managing director, but will remain a director. Walter Ahlstrom, one of the important figures in the Swedish Match Co., in which Kreuger & Toll is the largest single stockholder, has been elected president of the board of Ericsson to succeed C. A. Ramstron, resigned.

Westbrook Pegler Says

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—It is a wonder that in a land so ready to suppress fingernail biting, the dipping of bread in gravy, "and all manner of human vice" by legislative enactment, there has been no law to suppress golf and to provide some punishment to fit the crime of imparting advice or instruction in golf. Golf is an evil pursuit and parent to much woe. Mendacity, vagrancy, blasphemy, high blood pressure, and general moral decay are some of its consequences.

A vender of narcotic drugs is subject to severe penalties and is looked upon as a member of a low and evil social class, but a golf instructor carries himself with a pride amounting at times to arrogance, although he is the propagandist of a habit-forming vice that undermines character, destroys self-respect, and diverts thousands of citizens from thousands of hours of productive work.

I am aware of the specious argument that golf lures the addict from the cares of business into the healthful air of the suburbs, and I am prepared to show that the cares of golf are far more onerous. Moreover, the addict invariably steps into puddles or creeks, thus wetting his feet and then has the alternative of coming down with a chest cold or resorting to an undressing room where, in the company of other idle characters, he listens, in the course of a season, to several thousand variations of the story about the traveling salesman who stopped at the farm house, while drinking preventives of more than one-half of 1 per cent alcoholic content by volume.

Add Contempt of Law To Complaint.

The story of the traveling salesman and alcoholic indulgence is a concomitant of golf, so vulgarity and contempt for law may be added to the bill of complaint against golf.

The evil of this vice is the more insidious because it is conducted under a guise of sport and fine respectability which leads innocent, or at any rate, decent citizens to believe that golf is the proper thing to do. They are warned of cocaine, heroin and hop, but are led to believe that golf is a harmless pleasure and its devotees the exquisites of the sporting world.

One of the things I have set for myself to do when I have time is to write a book under the working title of "Up From Golf," which will be something on the order of occasional confessions by temporarily reformed rum pots, only more heroic, because drunkenness, after all, merely is a matter of physical appetite, whereas the grip of golf is social and spiritual, too. Here is a game, impossible to begin, whose victims are constantly lured along to further excesses by an unattainable desire to achieve something of no importance. Moreover, special provision is made to prevent the achievement of nothing worth while in the person of the golf instructor.

Will Reveal Sinister Guile of Instructor.

The golf instructor will have a special chapter in my book, which will reveal his sinister guile in giving his pupils contradictory advice from time to time, lest they come too close to the attainment of their childish goal, and thus, like the greyhound which overtakes the mock rabbit at the dog tracks, lose their illusion, their ambition and their enthusiasm for the vice. It is not enough that the game itself provides a desperate chasm between human possibility and perfection, but these mocking demons must prey upon the weakness of the victim, stimulating him to new efforts whenever he seems to have set up some immunity to the whole thing and is thinking of giving it up.

To the normal judgment, the schemes of the professional teachers

Freeman Gets Title Chance Tonight

Thompson Ready to Risk Crown at Cleveland.

$50,000 Gate Expected; Ohio Challenger Makes Weight.

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Young Jack Thompson, world's welterweight champion, will defend his title for the first time since he won it four months ago, when he meets Tommy Freeman, Cleveland challenger, in a fifteen-round contest to a referee's decision here tomorrow night.

The bout will be fought in the Cleveland American League ball park, with the prospects that the gate receipts will exceed $50,000. In event of a postponement, the match will be set back until Monday night. Indications were, however, it would be held as scheduled as fair and cooler weather has been promised.

Freeman, who defeated Thompson seven months ago, before the Californian Negro won the championship, will meet the title holder at the welterweight limit of 147 pounds. When he engaged Thompson in his first contest Freeman did not have to make weight and he came in at 152 pounds. This enabled him to retain his full fighting strength and gave him an edge of 6 pounds over Thompson.

Freeman Shows Ability To Make Weight.

There had been speculation as to Freeman's ability to meet the welterweight limit, but he dispelled this by tipping the beam at 145 pounds yesterday. The only question bothering Freeman's handlers is how strong he will be at the welterweight limit. Retaining his usual strength, the experts figure he will have an excellent chance to lift the crown, but if the weight weakens him, his chances of surviving the fifteen rounds are regarded as slim.

Thompson has had no trouble making weight. He scaled 144¾ yesterday and was so well satisfied with his condition he did no gym work today, spending the entire time resting.

Freeman, however, went through a light loosening-up workout to keep himself in trim.

The question of a referee was the important issue which remained unsettled tonight. Ed Barry, chairman of the boxing commission and director of public safety, refused to consider a Cleveland referee and had under consideration Eddie Purdy, of Chicago; George Blake, of Los Angeles; Lou Magnolia, of New York, and Patsy Halso, of New York.

Choice of Referee In Doubt.

The commissioners met with Chairman Barry this afternoon and went over the referee situation, but declined to reveal their selection until tomorrow. Blake is in the immediate territory and could be brought here in time to referee the match. Jack Dempsey was the choice of the management of the two boxers as third man in the ring, but the American Legion, under whose auspices the bout will be held, refused to consider the former world's heavyweight champion.

Thompson and Freeman probably will crawl through the ropes about 10 o'clock E. S. T. tomorrow night, with the semiwindup going on after the championship match.

Roesch Leads D. C. Golfers At 36 Holes in Title Tourney

FRANK K. ROESCH,
who shot a sensational 70 in his afternoon round yesterday for a total of 148, which leads the District amateur field.

Shorey Trailing by 2 Strokes; Stevinson Withdraws.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

FRANK K. ROESCH, of the Washington Golf and Country Club, yesterday led a field of 50 contestants in the first round of thirty-six holes medal play of the annual District amateur golf championship on the course of the Burning Tree Club. Roesch, who is one of the younger golfers, had an indifferent 78 in his morning round, but in the afternoon round scored a phenomenal 70, two strokes under par, for a total of 148.

In his afternoon round he had four birdies and one eagle, the latter a 3 upon the par 5 tenth hole. He led the field by three strokes, his nearest competitor being John C. Shorey, Bannockburn, who had two consistent rounds of 75 each for a total of 150.

At the conclusion of the forenoon round Harry G. Pitt, Manor, and former Middle Atlantic champion, was in the lead with a card of 73, one stroke over par, and with Dr. L. S. O'Tell, Indian Spring, and Walter R. Tuckerman, Burning Tree, who many years ago was District champion, following close behind with 74. Shorey's 75 was fourth in the list.

In the afternoon, however, there was a remarkable upset all along the line. Pitt not only failed to duplicate his morning score, but with an 8 on the fourth hole and another 8 on the fifteenth, due to a disastrous

GIANTS HELD AT BAY BY ZACHARY

Lose Ground in Race as Braves Win by 7 to 1.

BOSTON, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The New York Giants lost ground in the hectic National League pennant race today, when they failed to connect with the offerings of old Tom Zachary, the Boston Braves winning, 7 to 1.

The Giants made nine hits off the former Yankee southpaw, but old Tom was stingy in the pinches, the only run coming as the result of Jackson's triple and Roettger's single in the seventh.

Four double plays played an important role in Zachary's victory, the last of them coming in the ninth with Maranville making a brilliant stop of Jackson's hot grounder back of second, tossing the ball back-hand to Maguire, whose quick throw to Neun was in time to complete the double play.

Young Jim Chaplin pitched well for the Giants until the eighth, allowing only six hits in seven innings, but he weakened in the eighth and was reached for four more, which were good for a like number of runs. Jimmy Welsh hit a home run for the Braves in the fourth.

CUBS DEFEAT PIRATES IN 10TH, 10-7

Hartnett's 2 Homers Figure in Victory; Gain Game.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Chicago gained a full game on the Giants in the National League flag campaign when two home runs by Gabby Hartnett and one by Cuyler, gave the champions a 10-7 victory over Pittsburgh in ten innings here today. The game also saw the return of Hornsby, Cub second baseman.

Hartnett's first circuit blow came in the sixth inning off Wood with two on base and put the visitors in the game, as they were trailing 6 to 2 as the inning got under way. Cuyler, former Pirate tied up the contest with a home run off Wood in the eighth, and a double off the bat of Jess Petty, also a former Buccaneer, put the Cubs a run to the good in the same session.

L. Waner doubled and Paul tripled. Swetonic went in for Pittsburgh in the tenth, relieving French, who had taken the place of recruit Charley Wood in the eighth. After Taylor and Kelly had become occupants of bases through the medium of singles, Hartnett came to the rescue with his game-winning clout.

U. S. Six-Meter Yacht Team Beats British

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Gaining its fourth victory in as many days, the American six-meter yacht team won the 1930 series for the British-American Cup today, thus avenging the defeat it suffered at Great Britain's hands in the inaugural series on the Clyde in 1928. The Americans sailed only three boats against four for Great Britain today, yet outscored the invaders, 20¼ to 15.

Grove Enters Battle in Seventh, Credited With Victory.

Slugger Drives Home Six Runs; Macks in 3 Vital Rallies.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics required fifteen innings to beat the Boston Red Sox today by a score of 8 to 7. Twice saved from defeat by home runs in the overtime stanza innings, the Mackmen gave Lefty Grove his twenty-fourth victory of the season and the second in two days when Simmons drove in the sixth run of the game in the final round.

The world's champions took the lead in the first inning and the game was tied at 4 to 4 from the sixth to the tenth inning. In the tenth Reeves hit a home run and in the A's half Bing Miller tied the score again with a circuit drive.

Danny MacFayden started for the Red Sox and lasted until the fourteenth, when with the game 7-5 in his grasp, he was hit for a double by Cochrane and Simmons' thirty-third home run of the year that tied the score again.

Grove went into the box in the seventh inning, held the visitors to nine hits and struck out eight men.

In the fifteenth inning, Grove and Dykes singled and Cochrane walked, filling the bases. With the count two and three, Simmons smashed the ball to the center-field wall, scoring Grove with the winning run.

St. Louis, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals moved into a tie with the New York Giants for second place in the National League standing today by slaughtering the Cincinnati Reds, 13-2, in opening their semifinal home stand. Larry Benton made a good start for the Reds but was driven from the mound in the sixth inning by a deluge of hits that netted the Cardinals eight runs and clinched the game. Sylvester Johnson went the full route for St. Louis and kept Cincinnati's eight blows well scattered.

Brown Challenges Genaro; Posts Check

Los Angeles, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Attempting to force a match with Frankie Genaro, recognized in several States as flyweight champion, Newsboy Brown, perrenial Los Angeles trouble maker for titleholders in the 112-pound division, today forwarded to the New York Athletic Commission an official challenge to Genaro. A certified check for $2,500 accompanied the challenge.

Genaro was scheduled to meet Brown here next Tuesday, but officials of the Olympic Auditorium announced the New York fighter had reported he was not going through with the match, as he intended instead to meet Midget Wolgast, recognized as flyweight champion in New York and Pennsylvania, in a championship bout, October 17, in New York. Brown recently defeated Wolgast in a nontitle match at Hollywood.

Indians Down Chisox As Hudlin Stars in Box

Chicago, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Willis Hudlin's three-hit pitching aided Cleveland to a 3 to 2 victory over the White Sox in the first game of the series today.

The best the Sox could do was to bunch Jolley's double, a triple by Crouse and an infield out for two runs in the second, while the Indians pecked away at Cecil Pat Caraway for all their runs in the first four innings. Bob Seeds' homer provided the last Cleveland score. The victory was Hudlin's thirteenth of the season.

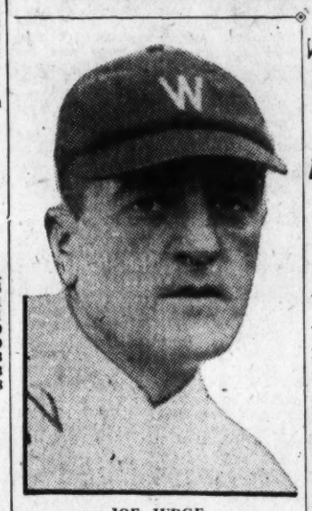
JOE JUDGE INJURED AFTER DRIVING HOME WINNING RUN IN 8TH



JOE JUDGE.

Veteran Strains Back; Johnson Fans 11 in Fine Duel.

New York Is Blanked After Taking 2-1 Lead in First.

By G. W. (MONITOR) DALEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Yanks just about bade good-by to second place in the American League race today. Some time ago the fact dawned on them that they couldn't beat out the Athletics for the pennant, but they always clung to the belief that they could arise at any time and knock the Nationals of Washington out of the running-up position.

But today Irving Hadley, who is known to the baseball fraternity as "Bump," bumped them off with six hits and led the Nationals to the sixteenth victory in twenty starts over the New Yorkers. This puts the Nats farther ahead of the Yanks than the Robins are behind the Chicago Cubs, and it looks as though the only solace for those folks is a post-season series of some kind—the championship of the Kings-Bronx-Harlem-Gowanus circuit.

Hadley, Trailing, Pitches Well.

Starting behind, Hadley pitched cleverly for his team. He allowed two runs in the first inning on a tremendous triple by Tony Lazzeri with two runners on base. After that the Yanks got nowhere, and guided by Joe Judge, the Nats banged in two more runs—Judge hit them both across the plate—and finally became the victors by a score of 3 to 2.

Judge added to his starring contributions of the game by stealing second in the eighth frame, but slightly injured his back and gave way to Shires in the home half of the frame. It is not believed that his injury is serious although there is a possibility that his back will stiffen up over night and keep him out of tomorrow's game.

It can not be said that Henry Johnson, pitching for the Yankees, was any weakling. He did well. But he always had the faculty of allowing his base hits at the wrong time and slipping across his strikeouts, in which he had many, at times when they didn't seriously affect the Nationals' scoring chances. He'll be a better pitcher next year.

You might say the Yanks bade good-by to the game in the very first inning. The Nats had scored a run through a weird conglomeration of bases on balls by Johnson, following a two-base hit by Sam Rice. Mixed up in it was a dropped throw at third by Lazzeri in an effort to check Rice stealing. Finally Johnson threw a fourth ball to Harris and forced in a run. Then he struck out Bluege to end the inning.

Combs' Liner Starts Rally.

But Combs rattled a safe liner to second off Hadley as soon as the Yanks came to bat and advanced a base on an error. Lary walked, all four balls thrown being wide of the plate. It looked like the start of another of the Yankee ball-murdering sprees, but strange to say, Ruth stood idly at the plate and three strikes were called. Gehrig approached and took three wide swings. Then came Lazzeri and he tripled to right center to score Combs and Lary. Rice drew a base on balls, but Dickey, as hitting hero the day before fouled weakly to Bluege.

And that was the end of the Yankee scoring. Ruth doubled in the third and was left. His double was a long drive to left which hit the low fence a foot from the top. But although only one was out neither Gehrig nor Lazzeri could do anything about it and in the fifth, Combs singled again with one out and was left. In the eighth Ruth walked and Gehrig forced him and in the ninth after Rice had singled with one out Dickey flied to center and Cook, batting for Chapman, fanned.

The Senators played a tough uphill battle, led by the doughty Judge. After Manush doubled in the sixth and Cronin had sacrificed him to third, Judge smacked the single which sent in Manush and tied the score. The Yankees played in close for Judge and a hopper that might

BABA KENNY EASY WINNER IN BELMONT FEATURE

Victory Nets Col. Bradley $24,650

Buckup Is Second and Ladana Third in Matron Stakes.

Tantivy Lincoln Field Winner; Very Well Disqualified.

BELMONT PARK RACE TRACK, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Col. Edward Riley Bradley's Baba Kenny by Black Servant—Betty Beall, and carrying 115 pounds, galloped to victory in the Matron Stakes for 2-year-old fillies here today, and her score added just $24,650 for her popular owner. J. E. Widener's Buckup was second and Rancocas Stable's Ladana third.

The race was run over the six furlongs straight course, and the result left no doubt as to the best filly shown in the East. The time was 1:12 flat, and at no part of the journey was the result ever in doubt.

Baba Kenny drew the rail position and when the barrier was released, J. Smith, who had the mount, got her away first and the filly stepped right along. She quickly took a length lead with J. Smith steadying her. Grossing the main track, Baba Kenny had increased her advantage to a two lengths lead and was only breezing. All through the final quarter mile, Baba Kenny just galloped along to win hard held by four lengths. Buckup came fast and took the place by three lengths over Ladana.

Lincoln Fields Feature Is Tantivy.

Lincoln Fields, Chicago, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Tantivy, one of H. P. Whitney's Western string, going in his best form, accounted for the Roosevelt Road, main event on the program here today. Hot Shot was a bang-up second, with Willa, the favorite, a length and a half back. Tantivy returned his backers $7.32 and added $4,100 to the Whitney Stable's coffers.

Tantivy improved his position after being taken wide the first half mile, but after heading Hot Shot in the stretch, he could not draw away. Hot Shot held on well in the drive to the wire, but could not withstand the winner's challenge. Willa was forced back repeatedly, being in close quarters all the way and never had a chance. The time for the six furlongs was 1:14 2-5.

The first race was marred by a disqualification. Very Well, who came in first, was dropped down to last position by the judges for crowding Dealer to the inside rail in the stretch drive. Dealer, a field horse, was given the race, paying his backers $68.68 in the $2 mutuels.

HADLEY HURLS NATS TO 3-TO-2 TRIUMPH have been an easy bout became a base hit.

The winning run came in the eighth and with two out. The customers were expecting an overtime battle when Sam Rice singled after Myer had flung a fly to H. Rice. Manush filed to Ruth, but then Cronin rapped a single past Lary and S. Rice raced to third and Judge clubbed the important blow of the day for the Nats and drove Rice in from third with a fine single to center. Bluege made another hit in the ninth, but Johnson came to time, and struck out Hadley and Myer. Too bad for the Yanks he couldn't have fanned some of the topliners.

Roy Sherid will be the Yankee pitcher tomorrow and "General" Alvin Crowder will be his opponent. Crowder is after his seventeenth victory of the year.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Lincoln Fields Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE featured race at Lincoln Fields is a dash of 6 furlongs, for older horses, for a purse of $1,400. It is called the Indian Woods Country Club Purse, if that matters. It has attracted a good field. Preference is given the Peabody sprinter, T. S. GORDAN, which has been running good races for several years. He is in exceptionally light with 107 pounds. SUPREME SWEET may be the contender. PRINCETON is another that should be in the money. ROLLED STOCKINGS and BLACK DIAMOND also are in the race, which should prove a speculative number. T. S. JORDAN, if at his best, should lead all the way, with his agility at getting away from the post.

FIRST RACE—This is for maiden 2-year-old fillies. ROSEVOLT has been close in several races, and she should graduate from this field. MODERN MAIDEN'S last two races have been good. She is regarded the first contender. MANNITE has a chance for show money.

SECOND RACE — ESTIN is the class of the second race over the 7-furlong route and is selected to win. LEYLAND and LEMNOS, rated next best in the order named, would prefer a longer route, but should hold the others safe. There is little class to the card as a whole today at this track.

THIRD RACE—The third race, the Kensington Purse for 2-year-olds, is the secondary feature and has engaged a far better lot of juveniles than in the opener. CHILLY FLIGHT is rated best. KAMALII should run second, on recent races. PORTCODINE has a chance at the first money, but should be as good as third under any circumstances. Seguro is another having a chance.

FIFTH RACE—PORT O' PLAY is a consistent plater, and should win the fifth race at a mile. He is much better than the average entry in claiming races of the cheap order. The dryin-out track will suit him, and he appears the most probable winner on the card. PASSALONG should be closest the pace, with MOROCCO a bit dangerous. Gambol also has been running in improved form.

SIXTH RACE—This is at a mile and a furlong and seems to be largely between MASTER ACE and PETER. The last named was at one time very fast, and considered a stake horse, but has been gradually dropping into cheaper fields.

SEVENTH RACE — HARAMZADA will have VOLTMETER to beat in the seventh race.

VERY WELL kept up close from the start, was forced wide by GOOD FRIEND when entering the stretch, impeded the latter before drawing clear and, allowed to swerve, forced DEALER to inside during the final sixteenth and was disqualified. DEALER improved his position gradually, moved up resolutely on the inside in the stretch and, suffering interference, failed to get up. UNITED ORBY began very slowly, lost much ground and closed fast. GOOD FRIEND began rapidly, bore out badly on the stretch turn and suffered interference in the stretch. MORE POWER was urged hard throughout and could not get to the leaders. REMEMBERED began sluggishly, was weakly ridden and dropped out of it in the stretch. YOGANO raced forwardly and suffered when the leader swerved in the stretch.

BETTY ANN, much the best and on the inside throughout, kept forward from the start, raced into lead with a rush and won in hand. FIALA displayed speed, worked her way to the front on the extreme outside and gamely outstayed CHARM. The latter, under energetic tactics throughout, raced forwardly and held on fairly well. PEACH ROSE raced well, ZETA worked her way to the inside, came under the best part of the track in the stretch, but weakened badly in the final eighth. ALEADER was outrun. JEANNE WACHS was forced back repeatedly and had no chance.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SISTER MARY, $5.82, $3.62, $2.98; FARR, $5.00, $3.54; WATER PORT, $4.20.

SISTER MARY got up in close quarters during the early stages, reached the lead on the turn, went very wide on the stretch turn, but closed gamely when straightened up and, wearing down VALEDICTORY, outstayed FARR. The latter had speed from the start, was forced wide by the winner on the stretch turn and, after being eased back, went to the inside and closed fast. WATER PORT began slowly under a weak ride and closed resolutely when urged hard. VALEDICTORY dropped back on the turn, but rushed into a good lead after reaching the final quarter and quit in the final sixteenth. UPRIGHT had no mishaps. FUDGE had a rough trip. CHICAGO GIRL quit.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TANTIVY, $7.32, $3.64, $2.60; HOT SHOT, $3.70, $2.60; WILLA, $2.60.

TANTIVY, going in his best form, raced wide while a good distance back during the opening half mile, improved his position steadily thereafter, but after heading HOT SHOT, could not draw away. The latter alternated with HOT TIME in the early lead, drew clear after reaching the stretch, but could not withstand the winner, yet held on well, after being headed. WILLA, probably much the best, was forced back repeatedly while trying to get through on the inside, kept up close and was in very close quarters the final twenty yards. BEAMING OVER closed fast. ROLLED STOCKINGS began slowly. HOT TIME quit after showing speed to the stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EASTER BOY, $52.90, $21.56, $12.68; MY NO, $6.68, $4.00; WHISK ARROW, $3.92.

EASTER BOY began fast, easily withstood early challenges from HAL RILEY, benefited by saving ground and, holding on well, won drawing away. MY NO, never far back, moved up menacingly after reaching the final five-sixteenths, but weakened when near the lead. WHISK ARROW slowly improved her position on the turn and went gamely to the drive. SANDY LADY began slowly, suffered mild blocking and was on the outside the final three-eighths. HONEYFISH weakened. OVERFIRE began very slowly. HAL RILEY was done after showing speed for three-quarters.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:52. Off at 4:54. Winner, Norvoo Stable's br. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOYISH BOB, $42.82, $12.80, $9.00; THE TARTAR, $5.18, $4.02; DOLLY POLLY, $10.50.

BOYISH BOB raced well in hand while disposing of MISS LEE, continued well under pressure after reaching the stretch and stalled off the opposition, but had nothing left. THE TARTAR, well up and lucky to save ground, went resolutely in the drive and outfinished DOLLY POLLY. The latter, never far back, raced a trifle wide and went evenly under a weak ride during the final quarter. JACK CRAIN was in close quarters much of the way and closed ground going strong. FINNIC quit. HY SCHNEIDER was on the outside the entire trip and could not reach contention. VANDAL had no mishaps.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:22. Off at 5:22½. Winner, Mrs. J. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOTHER'S CHOICE, $4.78, $3.14, $2.72; ELLEN N., $3.90, $3.60; SUN STROKE, $8.52.

MOTHER'S CHOICE, a forward factor from the start and well ridden, was under reserve for three-quarters, took command with a rush when called upon and had something left. ELLEN N. improved her position on the outside, held the lead briefly inside the stretch turn and weakened badly in the final eighth. SUN STROKE was a prominent factor after a half mile, raced wide and weakened, but outstayed KELLY'S PRIDE. The latter began slowly. RED CROSS SISTER was done after showing speed to the stretch. LOCKET, always outrun, showed a dull effort.

TODAY'S GAME.
Calvary vs. Tile Setters.

COMING to bat in the ninth inning after their opponents had just scored five runs to apparently put the game on ice, the Tile Setters yesterday uncorked a wild rally on the Terminal Diamond after two were out to render their game with the Calvary Church Team in the play-off of the week-day championship series into a 11-11 tie.

As a result, the same two teams will battle again this afternoon for the right to meet the Pullman Nine, undefeated in three starts for the title.

11 Runs Scored in Ninth Inning.

After an exceptionally close game for eight innings, after which period the Church team found itself leading by one run, both teams put on their slugging clothes in the final frame, 11 runs being pushed across the platter by both nines. Calvary started the melee by registering five times to take a 11-5 lead and to apparently clinch the game, but after two were out, the Tile Setters counted six times on as many hits, a walk and an error, Harrison's single driving across the tying run for the climax.

The hitting of Third Baseman Licarione, of the Tile Setters, was the outstanding feature of the game, the guardian of the hot corner connecting safely five times and driving across three runs. Eight errors by the Tile Setters and four by the Calvary members gave opportunities to the adverse side for many scores.

The Tile Setters held the lead in the game but once, for the first two innings, as a result of two runs scored in the first when Freschi singled with two on. Calvary took the lead in the third, two doubles, an error and a sacrifice fly which accounted for three runs and added a like number of tallies to their total in the fifth when the Tile Setters contributed three miscues which, with a walk and a single, accounted for the markers.

Tile Setters Gain in Fifth and Sixth.

The Tile Setters then came within one of tying the score in the next two innings, registering once in the fifth and twice in the sixth. Freschi again drove across a run with a single in the fifth after Licarione had hit and advanced to third on two infield outs. With two out in the sixth, two more Tile Setters crossed the plate when First Baseman Taylor allowed Harrison's roller to go through his legs.

Nothing more happened to the scoring columns of either side until the blowoffs in the ninth.

$160,000 Suit Filed Against Ace Hudkins

Los Angeles, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Ace Hudkins, middleweight boxer, was sued for $160,000 damages today by Miss Rhea W. Hill, who charged him with breaking her nose and refusing to marry her after betraying her under promise of marriage.

The complaint, filed in Superior Court, alleged the "Nebraska Wildcat" became engaged to Miss Hill September 1, 1927. It stated they had planned to marry within a year thereafter, or as soon as Hudkins returned from the ring.

During the relationship, Miss Hill complained, Hudkins repeated his avowals of matrimonial intentions, but finally refused to fulfill his promises last Friday.

The damage suit was brought in two actions. Under the first Miss Hill seeks $100,000 for alleged seduction which "deprived me of a happy home and future chances to marry."

Under the other the plaintiff seeks $60,000 for two alleged beatings, which, she asserted, occurred a week ago. On August 30, the complaint stated, Hudkins beat her with "blows about the head and body and tore her clothes in front of friends." The following day Miss Hill alleged he beat her again.

Shirts Must Be Worn In French Net Events

Paris, Sept. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Tennis players in France must wear shirts. The French Lawn Tennis Association today announced a rule which forbids players to appear clad only in trousers.

The action was taken against a possible lowering of the standard of the game and because of complaints voiced by women players in mixed doubles contests. There have been times when the playing benches have been filled with shirtless men taking advantage of the sunshine.

Shamrock V Passes All Measuring Tests

Newport, R. I., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup, Shamrock V, passed all the official measuring tests here today. The British yacht was towed from her berth to the United States Naval Training Station and inspected by Prof. Harold Webb, of Columbia University, official measurer of the New York Yacht Club, in the presence of Col. Duncan Neil, representing the challenging vessel's owner.

28 CENTRAL PLAYERS GO TO CAMP

Coach Rauber Faces Task of Developing Linemen.

TWENTY-EIGHT strong, Central High School's football squad leaves today for ten days' training at St. John's College, of Annapolis, Md., where Coach Ty Rauber expects to organize a varsity team by the time he brings his charges back to the city September 16.

Among the more than two dozen candidates who were invited to camp following two days' preliminary workouts at the Columbia Heights Stadium are only five regulars from last year's team, but six others were on the Blue and White squad. With his back field of Pinckney, Hinkel, Colella and Cumberland intact, it will be Rauber's chief task to develop a line to take the place of that of last year, shattered by graduation.

Two Daily Drills Scheduled.

It is the purpose of the Blue and White mentor to hold two regular workouts a day, with the hope that the boys will be ready for scrimmaging next week. The Severn School, an institution on the outskirts of Annapolis and scholastic champions of Maryland last year, has invited Central to scrimmage with its team and likely will be met in daily drills. The Central squad will be forced to travel at top speed in order to be ready for its opening game with Gonzaga here just three weeks from today.

In addition to the "four horsemen" mentioned the following will go to camp: Delisio, Black, Morgan, Johnson, Childress, Deveau, Kocsis, Carroll, Cuvillier, Boyle, Miller, Boucher, Coleman, Fitzwater, Lamond, Lallande, Garrott, Sartwell, Feldman, Mirman, Wilson, Lofstrand and Manager Sherr.

SAYS PEGLER

are transparent enough, but the addict, in his fuddlement, regards the instructor as a priest of religion and makes no question when one and the same tutor tells him one week to snap the club head through with his right hand and the next week tells him to let the left and do it all.

This trustfulness shows how thoroughly the addict's judgment is rotten by the person of the game. He obeys unquestioning, and if he still retains sufficient character to experience a glimmering doubt about such contrary teaching, he lacks the will to slug the instructor with his mid-iron, using both hands, and rid a troubled world of one tormentor.

Golf's Character Qualities Not Virtues at All.

The qualities which golf is supposed to emphasize in the character of the players are not virtues at all. There is this philosophic meekness, for instance, which a man is expected to evince when he has poised himself above the ball for three minutes, remembered all his lessons, kept his head down, his left arm stiff, brought his right shoulder through and pivoted with the swing, and has then seen the ball go hippety-skipping 30 yards over a garden wall bearing a sign "beware of the dog." Is this a time for philosophic meekness, self-control and resignation? Are golfers mice or are they men?

This book, "Up From Golf," will be a story of emancipation and will earn me a lot of money. I shall spend some of it for a new set of irons, mine being badly designed and full of scuffs and slices, and then will return to the meadows, not as an addict, you understand, but as a deliverer, to lick and humiliate this damn game. It will be simple to one in my clear, emancipated state of mind.

I will keep my eye on the ball, hit with plenty of wrist at the instant of impact, pivot and follow through. In fact, I won't even need the new irons. I can do it with my old ones. I will do it tomorrow and write the book later.

O'Reilly Nominated to Head District A. A. U. Body.

JOHN D. O'REILLY, veteran track coach of Georgetown University and one of the best-known figures in the world of amateur sports, has been nominated for the presidency of the District of Columbia Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

O'Reilly's nomination was made by the association's nominating committee at a recent meeting, the announcement being made yesterday.

For the other offices of the District organization, the following were nominated: Edward Rosenblum, Jewish Community Center, first vice president; James Sullivan, Knights of Columbus, second vice president; A. Earle Weeks, Washington Canoe Club, third vice president, and Winfree Johnson, Welfare and Recreational Association, secretary-treasurer.

Elections will be held at the regular annual meeting of the association on Monday night, September 15, at the Jewish Community Center. The meeting is open to delegates of all member clubs of the association.

The committee also nominated the following for the various committee positions:

Handicapper, track and field — Yank Robbins, Downtown Coaches Club.

Handicapper, swimming — Jerome S. Shear, Washington Canoe Club.

American U. Eleven To Play at Central

American University's Football Team will play its only two home games in Central Stadium this season. Use of the big, centrally located field by the Eagles was granted in a letter received from public school officials yesterday by Coach Walter H. Young.

The games are scheduled September 27 with Shenandoah and October 4 with Shepherd College. Heretofore American U.'s games have been held on fields too far removed from the city proper to draw satisfactorily, but having obtained use of the Central Stadium the Eagles hope for large attendance this year.

Coach Young's small squad was augmented yesterday by the reporting of William Fuchsle, an end, and Philip Chates, a back, both of whom are freshmen. Fuchsle comes from Kingston, N. Y., and Chates is a product of Bucksport (Me.) Academy.

By next Monday Young expects to have about 20 players in training.

4-Round Bout Added To Ft. Washington Card

A special four-round bout between George Baukas, Greek battler, and Johnny Clark, soldier, of Fort Washington, has been added to the Front Line Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, boxing show Monday night at Fort Washington, Md.

Baukas, connected with Frankie Mann' stable, and Clark are practically novices but are expected to put on a merry mixup.

Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn stated last night he plans to add another four-rounder and this will enable him to offer Washington and Alexandria fistic fans thirty-six rounds of fighting.

WANT SUNDAY GAME.

The Northwest Cardinals would like a Sunday game with some strong unlimited nine having a field. Call Hank Duryee at Cleveland 5982.

G. U. GRIDMEN PLEASING MILLS

Coach Elated Over Fitness; Bordeau Now at Camp.

Special to The Washington Post.

POINT LOOKOUT, Md., Sept. 4.—One of the most pleasing and encouraging features about the Georgetown University football candidates in training here from the viewpoint of Head Coach Tommy Mills, is their fine physical condition at this early stage of the season.

After another day of arduous drill, the 40 Hoya hopefuls showed no ill effects tonight, and Mills was prompted to state smilingly: "That's the best conditioned bunch of football players that ever reported to me in my 20 years in the game."

During the summer the Blue and Gray players kept themselves in good physical trim by means of various kinds of outdoor work and exercise. The result was that they reported here Tuesday ready to get down to hard practice.

Bordeau Shows Form.

Leroy "Buddy" Bordeau, plunging full back of the 1929 varsity, gives a striking illustration of this condition. Buddy came in yesterday morning and forthwith hopped into the drill which saw the backs blocking ends and running through formations for two solid hours. Bordeau, who doubtless will be relied on to gain much yardage for Georgetown this fall, appears ready right now to tuck the ball under his arm and go tearing into the opposition.

Regular scrimmaging is not to be attempted until next week, but yesterday's two drills included plenty of rough stuff with four groups of linemen charging against each other.

Still nothing has been heard from Tim Moynihan, assistant coach, who was reported to have agreed to join the staff of Knute Rockne at Notre Dame. Coach Mills, however, in the absence of notification from Moynihan, expects him to appear here shortly. Moynihan is believed to be en route from his home in Rawlings, Wyo.

ROESCH TOPS FIELD IN DISTRICT AMATEUR

battle against the trees which lined the fairway, coupled with many missed putts, could not do better than 84 for a total of 157 and apparently passed out of the picture.

Tuckerman also fell by the wayside and with his putting touch entirely gone, scored a fatal 84. Only Shorey and O'Tell seemed still to be in control of their game, the latter finishing in third place with a total of 153. In the meantime, Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia, the defending champion, after an 82 in the morning round, when he played the first nine in 44 strokes with three 6s and four 5s included on his card, and a 76 in the afternoon, which practically placed him out of the running, decided to withdraw.

Out o ftheturmoil and struggle of the afternoon round oResch, as already stated, emerged at the head of the field by virtue of his remarkable 70 and two other players, who had had comparatively high scores in the first round, tied for fourth position. These golfers were Everett Eynon, Columbia, with 78—76—154, and William P. DiEste, Argyle, 82—72—154.

Di Este's Comeback Spectacular.

DiEste's comeback was almost as spectacular as Roesch's, for his 72 in the afternoon was ten strokes better than his morning round, and was even with par. In fact, if he had not taken four strokes from off the edge of the green on the thirty-sixth hole his total would have tied with Roesch. Another remarkable comeback was staged by Volney Burnett, Beaver Dam, who in the afternoon played the first nine in 45 strokes and then negotiated the inward nine in 34, two strokes under par. The cards of the three leaders:

It was positively announced yesterday that Roland Mackenzie and Fred McLeod would be paired as partners against Robert Tyre Jones, jr., and Macdonald Smith in the four-ball exhibition match to be played on the course of the Columbia Club on the afternoon of September 16 as a benefit for Bobby McWatt, who was the professional at the old Columbia Golf Club many years ago and who has been a cripple, due to an automobile accident, for the past two years. Admission to the grounds will be $2 and tickets will be on sale at Spalding's and the various golf clubs tomorrow. Details as to parking space and other arrangements will be determined later, after conference with the officials of the Columbia Club.

Palace Will Defend Grid Title in 150-Pound Class

Capital City League Elevens Change Classification; Ten-Team Football Race Assured; Weight Change Made.

AT least ten outstanding sandlot football teams in this vicinity will comprise the 150-pound section of the Capital City Football League this season. Last year's 135-pound elevens, in meeting last night at the Howard A. French's sports store, decided to follow the action of the "150 pounders" of last season who changed their name to the unlimited class.

By vote the managers dropped the misleading designation of "135-pound class' and moved up into the 150-pound division, and made a change in the rules governing the weight of players which will give the clubs an average of about 150 pounds per player.

Instead of letting the average weight govern, a scale was adopted allowing teams two players over 160 pounds, six ranging from 150 to 160 pounds and seventeen under 150 pounds.

Players who have played a varsity college game will be barred as well as those who play this season with high school or prep school elevens.

Franchise fees of $10 will be posted at the next meeting of the section to be held at French's store on September 25, at which time the drawing of the schedule and other details pertaining to the league will be completed.

The list of teams represented last night includes the strongest clubs of last season and several promising new elevens. The teams are: Palace, defending champions; Brentwood Hawks, Del Ray, Meridians, Wolverines, Northern Preps, Centennials, Northeast Columbias, Petworth Pennants, Stantons.

St. Mary's Celtics Meet Old Diamond Foe Sunday

Alexandria Scene of Return Battle With Fredericksburg; President's Cup Golf Tourney Tomorrow.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 4.—The St. Mary's Celtics Baseball Team will entertain an old rival Sunday, when the crack Fredericksburg Elks' Nine puts in its first appearance for the season at Baggett's Stadium.

The Fredericksburgers already have defeated the Celtics in an early season game and Mickey Kelliher's nine will be out for revenge. Jake Jacobs, who had a try out with the Washington Griffmen, will pitch for the Elks, while Lefty McIntyre will to the hill for the Alexandrians.

A large delegation of fans from the historic city are expected to make the trip.

Muny Junior Net Final Played Today.

The final in the municipal junior tennis tournament will be played Friday afternoon on the high school courts. Charlie Nicholson, youthful high school star, will oppose Buddy Goode, the defending champion. Bill Moncure will referee the match.

On Saturday the President's Cup golf tournament will feature at the Belle Haven Country Club. This trophy is placed in competition by Judge W. S. Snow, president of the club. About 60 Virginia golfers are expected to see the honors. The Carlin trophy was won by T. Briley Clem in 1929.

Baggett Is Track Captain Of W. and M.

Alexandria athletes attending colleges in Virginia and other States are leaving the city this week for their alma mater. Marshall Baggett, track captain at William and Mary in 1929, will return. He is expected to set a new Virginia record for the 440 dash.

Marshall Smith is entered at the University of Richmond. He played in three freshman sports last year and coaches are banking heavily on him to win a berth on the varsity grid team.

Charlie Armstrong, captain of the Hargrave Military Academy Football Team, will enter Washington and Jefferson University. He played in the line and is a beg fellow, tipping the scales at 230.

At the University of Virginia, Herbert Bryant and Bill Moncure will represent the city in football. Both are members of the Cavaliers Varsity Squad and play in the back field.

Moncure Seeks Berth At Navy.

Sammy Moncure, a brother of Bill Moncure, Cavaliers gridder, is at the Naval Academy. Sammy plays on the lacrosse team and is expected to win a regular berth on the Varsity Football Eleven.

Chunky "Paul" Travers is already training with the Varsity Football Squad at Virginia Military Institute. He played on three yearling teams in various sports in 1929 and is rated to make a varsity football berth.

Several other Alexandria boys are entered in preparatory schools. Among them are George Beach and Jack Sampson, football players at Hargrave, and Ellet Cabell and Ben Baggett at Emerson Institute in Washington.

The Municipal Swimming Pool will close for the season on Sunday night, it was announced by J. Prex Wilson, director, today. Several swimming meets were featured this season.

G. W. FROSH GRID STARS RETURN

'29 Yearlings Among Those Going to Camp Letts for Drills.

ONE by one, George Washington University's "he-men" football players are arriving in town after their summer's vacation awaiting only the hour of again leaving the city next Monday when Head Coach Jimmy Pixlee leads a squad of around 50 to the Buff and Blue's new training site at Camp Letts, just outside of Annapolis.

That the expectations of seeing members of last year's freshmen eleven in varsity uniforms this year has not been in vain on the part of G. W. students is realized by the fact that not one member of last year's husky yearling squad has failed to signify his intention of returning to the G street school, with four dependables of the team already on hand.

Wells, Vogts, Carlin On Hand.

Billy Wells, crack quarter back, was among those present yesterday, as were the Vogt brothers, Bill and Al, stellar ends, and Lee Carlin, crashing half back. Each of the quartet is expected to gain a regular berth on the coming varsity and appears to be in the best of condition.

While Pixlee is not due to arrive until Friday Assistant Coach Jean Sexton is on hand and reports all in readiness for the opening of the camp on Monday. Nothing but football will be the menu for camp, according to those in authority, as two practice sessions have been scheduled for each day, with a skull drill on tap for the evening hours.

The squad will remain in camp for two weeks, returning to the city Saturday, September 20, four days before the opening of school.

Head Coach Jimmy Pixlee returned to town yesterday and immediately left for an inspection of Camp Letts.

Galena, Kennedyville In Series Tomorrow

Special to The Washington Post.

Galena, Md., Sept. 4.—Two Kent County baseball clubs will battle for the championship of the six-club Chesapeake Bay League, beginning next Saturday afternoon at the Galena ball grounds, and the three-game series will, it is believed by the management of both clubs, draw some of the largest crowds of the season from Maryland and Delaware. Galena won the lead for the first half of the season and, in the series just completed, Kennedyville nosed out all rivals for the leadership of the final half.

The pennant will go to the club winning two out of three tilts in the forthcoming title series. The second game will be played at Kennedyville the following Saturday. Bill Lolley, premier flinger for Kennedyville, will probably start in the box Saturday, with Coleman, versatile young hurler for Galena, likely opposing him.

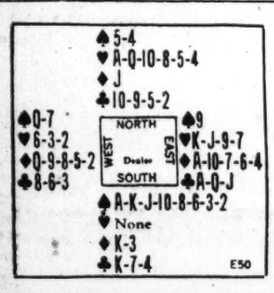
WORK ON BRIDGE



The above hand presents a problem for the Contract Bridge player. South can expect to take eight Spades, although there is a possibility of an abnormal Spade distribution in view of his having no Hearts in his own hand. Nevertheless, he should count his hand as good for eight Spades. Neither of the two Kings may win, but it is more than conservative to count them as one trick. This is the type of hand with which pre-emption is advisable: if partner has strength it will be easy to make game in Spades; if he has none it is important to keep the adversaries from bidding Hearts. A bid of four Spades almost surely will pre-empt, and partner will not jump for a slam unless he has material assistance as the pre-emptive four may have been made with eight tricks or a shade less.

When four Spades was bid, East and West were shut out, and North, appreciating that four was bid with the object of shutting out Hearts, did not interfere by overcalling in that suit.

In the play West opened with a Diamond, which East won with the Ace, and then, in an effort to shut out North's little trumps, led the singleton Nine. South won with the Ace and, it being the only chance to utilize dummy's Ace of Hearts and give the South hand a Club discard, led South's King of Diamonds and trumped it with dummy's Five of trumps. This was followed by the Ace of Hearts, which, of course, took a trick, and on which South discarded a Club. Then from dummy a Club which East took with the Ace, but his doing so established Declarer's King of Clubs, and consequently Declarer was able to make five-odd.

It will be noticed that if Declarer had not trumped his own trick he would have been obliged to lead Clubs from the closed hand and would have made only three-odd.

CLOSING BEAR DRIVE SENDS STOCKS DOWN

Losses From 1 to 2 Points; 450,000 Shares Sold in Final Hour.

AMERICAN TOBACCO UP

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The stock market slumbered through most of today's session, awakening just before the close to find that a late bear drive had snatched a point or two from several of its favorite shares.

In the main, the day's movements were patterned after yesterday's. There were a couple of rallies and a couple of declines prior to the repetition of Wednesday's selling ripple in the last half hour. So dull had trading become by early afternoon that only about 77,000 shares changed hands between 1:30 and 2:10; but the professional shorts quickly took advantage of this condition, as has been their habit in recent months, and sales in the last 50 minutes totaled about 450,000 shares, bringing the day's total just over the million and a half mark.

Wheat at New 1930 Low.

News was scarce, and enthusiasm for an advance in prices was even scarcer. Wall street heard reports that one or two of the independent steel companies were likely to take unfavorable dividend actions. There were several more dividend reductions, including a cut by a New York bank, the first to take such a step since the panic. F. W. Dodge Corporation reported a 5 per cent reduction in the value of building contracts awarded during August in comparison with July.

Wheat was heavy, making new lows for the season on net losses of about a cent. Corn was somewhat firmer and cotton showed nominal advances, amounting to 5 to 15 points.

Bonds were again in favor and the average for 30 issues rose to a new 1930 high. Much of the strength was in the rails, but there was evidence that investment funds were overflowing from the bond market into preferred stocks. United States Steel preferred made a record high at 148¼, a point above the previous peak attained in 1928.

Goodyear Tire Declines.

The undertone of the share market was generally heavy. Upward moves in the steels, motion picture shares and a few specialties such as Eastman Kodak and United Aircraft had little breadth and profits were promptly accepted. The late selling first appeared in the utilities, carrying down American Telephone, Western Union and American Power & Light about 2 points each, and then spreading throughout the list. U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Can and General Motors lost a point.

New lows were touched by Goodyear Tire, Ludlum Steel and Cerro de Pasco Copper, the last named touching 40¼, a minimum since 1924. Ludlum was affected by reports concerning the safety of the dividend.

European currencies were under pressure, Sterling Cables lost ¼ and the French franc sagged 3-8. Latin American rates again rallied.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—An early advance on fear that a tropical storm said to be moving in the direction of the Florida Straits might get into the cotton belt was followed by reactions in cotton here today. New December contracts after selling up to 11.46 on the early buying, or 16 points net higher, declined to 11.25 under Souther selling and realizing, but recovered part of the loss, closing at 11.36. The general market closed steady at net advances of 5 to 15 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 7 to 13 points on the relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports that a tropical storm had passed over Santo Domingo. Early offerings were readily absorbed with the market selling up to 11.28 for October and 11.70 for March before the end of the morning, or about 14 to 17 points net higher.

The demand then tapered off and the failure of the storm news to inspire more active or general buying seemed a disappointment to holders of contracts. This led to scattering liquidation or reselling by early buyers, while the advance seemed to have met a little more Southern selling, and prices eased off during the middle of the day. New October sold down to 11.70 and March to 11.51, making net declines of about 1 to 3 points on the more active months, but more trade buying was encountered on the setback and closing prices showed rallies of 10 or 12 points from the lowest on renewed covering.

Another private crop report was published during the morning which placed the condition of the crop at 54.6 and the indicated yield at 13,420,000 bales. These indicated yield figures were lower than shown by the private reports previously published but seemed to be without much effect on the market. It also estimated ginnings prior to September 1 at 1,738,000 bales. Business was fairly active at the start, but tapered off after the early advance, as if traders were inclined to await further developments with reference to the progress of the storm or in the rate of marketing in the South.

Liverpool cables reported a broadening demand for cotton cloths in Manchester and said liquidation had been absorbed by covering and trade calling.

Exports today, 6,047 bales, making 437,365 so far this season. Port receipts, 31,437. United States port stocks, 1,910,621.

ADVANCE IN BONDS LED BY CARRIERS

Utilities and Industrials Are Also Strong as Several 1930 Highs Appear.

AVERAGES AT NEW PEAK

New York, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Bonds advanced today on an increased turnover and the price average for 30 representative issues went to a new high for the movement.

The strength of the rails was a prominent factor in the advance, but utilities and industrials were close to the carrier obligations in the demand by institutions and private investors.

Foreign issues were irregular, with the exception of French bonds. Both the 7s and the 7½s of the republic made new highs and better prices also prevailed for several other issues of French origin. Latin-Americans were widely mixed. Peru 7s, trading for the first time this week, advanced more than 4 points from the previous sale and the second 6s rose a point. Argentines were firm but Brazilians, Colombians and Sao Paulos were highly irregular.

The usual number of new highs was made in the domestic list.

Rails achieving that distinction included Chicago & Erie first 5s, Big Four general 5s, New Haven 3½s and Pennsylvania 4½s and 4s. New tops for the year were also reached by American Telephone debenture 5s of 1960, Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s, North American Edison 5½s, Pure Oil 5½s and Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s.

Inquiry for the rails extended rather noticeably into the secondary listings, which was regarded as a significant move. The Erie issues were in good demand at fractional advances. New York City tractions were buoyant on large turnovers.

Miscellaneous firm spots embraced Illinois Steel debenture 4½s, National Dairy 5½s, Penn Dixie Cement 6s and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s.

Convertible and other issues carrying stock features were again dormant. Texas Corporation 5s eased. Warner Brothers Pictures, another popular bond, were firm.

Libertys held steady on light dealings, but the Treasurys sagged, the 3¾s losing ¼.

Miss Mysterious—By Larry Lawrence

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

A sorority girl, affectionately called Babe, is given a terrific emotional shock by a letter from her guardian, Clement Forseith, saying that he has lost all her money, and is going to commit suicide. He adds a greater shock by saying that her real name is not Thelma Townley, as she always believed, and predicts that she will never learn her true identity. Babe tries to harden her heart to face the world without money or name. She determines to learn the truth of her parentage at all costs. A man from the West Coast comes to see Babe, says his name is Reuben Morgan, boldly announces that he knows of her trouble, and proposes marriage as a way out of her difficulty. While talking to him she is waved in a telegram from Tacoma against Morgan. She promises to see him at 11 a. m. the next day, and then goes to a dance with Peter Jones, who is in love with her. He tells her that he has heard two men talking about her and acting suspiciously. That night she is kidnaped, but Peter follows the kidnapers, captures them and drives to his father's summer home. One of the criminals escapes and takes Pete's car.

CHAPTER VI.

Gus, lying on the floor, gave one of those insulting guffaws, sometimes described as a horse laugh.

"I'll put my foot in your face," Pete growled, his voice heavy with anger. He was so disgusted with himself for having permitted the one kidnaper to escape and the other to have come so close to touching Babe that he was ready to explode. He made a move toward Gus, but Babe laid a hand on his arm.

"Don't, Pete. He's helpless now."

"Of course, I wouldn't kick him. But the brute had better keep that nasty laugh to himself or I'll ram a gag down his throat."

"No, don't do that, Pete."

Gus apparently was in a fairly good frame of mind despite his beating at Pete's hands. Bound, as he was, he still held something like the whiphand, for it was obvious that Pete feared that the other kidnaper would soon arrive with reinforcements.

"What will we do?" asked Pete.

"What can we do?"

"If you're strong enough we can hike to the village. I could get in touch with dad, could get police."

"No, not police," Babe insisted. This was the third time she had vetoed the suggestion of calling in the police. After all it would have been a simple matter to have turned the man over to the police in the first place. Pete was beginning to worry at her obstinate refusal to call in the men of the law. And he remembered what she had said as they were talking over the luncheon table. Did she have some criminal record? Why did she refuse to marry him? Why did she talk as if she had something in her past to conceal? Maybe she was really connected with criminals.

Pete tried to put the thought out of his mind. "Well," he told himself, "whatever she is or has been, I love her and I've got to see this through. She had started to tell me something when this brute began his hammering."

"We've got to do something," Pete blurted, coming out of his dark study. "That rat will be here soon to rescue his pal."

Gus laughed again. "Yes, and to take you cookies," he jeered. "Why did you think I stuck around if it wasn't to keep track of you birds. You sure enough played into our dukes. This is just where we wanted to bring the little lady. Of course we've got no use for you, Pete, but I guess we can take care of you for a time."

Gus Talks and Threatens.

"You're getting pretty bold," Pete sneered. "I can still stick a gag in your face."

Babe gave Pete a little pinch that Gus couldn't see from his position on the floor. Pete read it as a signal to let Gus talk on, and acting on the tip decided to goad him into saying more.

"Why, you big baboon, you're just a cheap criminal. I'll bet you rob filling stations for a living. I'll bet you don't even know where we are now. That baloney about being in the right spot for you don't give me any scare." Campus slang seemed to Pete to be about the right sort of language to use on the criminal.

Gus rose to the bait. No one is so vain as your professional yegg.

"Oh, I don't know, eh! Well, buddy, you and the frail will find out soon enough. The boys have probably got this shack covered right now. We're just about 4 miles from the burg and plenty of the big shots have hideouts in this neck of the woods. And, listen to me, little boy, one more crack about sticking up juice peddlers and I'll take it out of your skin when we've got you laced up."

"Listen to the ape talk." Pete turned and spoke directly to Babe. "His little pal has probably run out on him and he's just shooting off his face to keep up his courage. Let's swing him down in the basement and beat it. We can lock him in plenty tight and see if his pals will ever find him."

Babe was watching Gus as Pete spoke and from what she saw in his face she decided that he wanted to hold them there a little longer. Probably all his talk had been for that purpose alone. The urge to get away while still free was strong upon her, but the thought that Gus might drop a word that would help her solve the mystery of her identity held her, too. She was certain now that Morgan's sudden arrival from the West, his haste to marry her and the kidnaping were linked together in some mysterious way and that all this had some bearing on the matter of her parentage.

Gus was talking now. She listened intently for a clew. "Beat it if you think you can get anywhere." That was all bluff, meaningless, but he talked on. "The boss is a smart egg. My pal had him on the line ten minutes after getting out of this joint. Say, the boss probably had his men around this dump in thirty minutes. You've yapped your time away. It's a cinch the duke will be in with the runt in another five minutes."

You Will Meet the Duke.

"Who's the duke?" Babe asked, innocently as she could.

"You'll meet the duke personlly, lady," Gus answered "You ought to be glad to get a tumble from him. He's a dresser, what I mean. All the class in the world. Gad. I didn't know they sported rags like that on the coast." He didn't notice the slip, but it was meat for Babe. She wanted to hear more about this boss of the kidnaping expedition.

"Is he a real duke? Did he come from the French coast?" she asked.

"Naw, you rummy. They just call him duke out on the West Coast. He's a big shot with his mob out there."

That told Babe some of what she wanted to know. He was undoubtedly from the West Coast. He probably had known Forseith as had Morgan.

"What's the duke's name?" Babe asked.

"Now you're asking something, ain't you?" Gus answered. "His name is the Duke."

"Why does he want me?" she demanded.

"Well, now who wouldn't?" Gus laughed at his attempt to be flattering and at the same time mystifying.

Pete gave the prostrate form a shove with his toe, "I ought to plant this into you," he said, then stooping over quickly saw Gus wince. "Oh, don't be afraid, I'm just going to tighten up on your lacings." This he proceeded to do and when he had finished he took Babe by the arm and led her out of the room.

"He'll be safe for a half hour at least. I think he was just bluffing about anybody being around the house now. Shall we duck out into the night? I know a dozen places around here we could hide and they would never find us."

A Decision to Get Away.

"Pete, I think you're right. We should escape these men. I'm afraid they are desperate, but if we stay and meet them I may learn what I want to know more than anything else in the world."

"Honey, I don't know what it is, of course, but I am afraid for you. You saw how Gus acted?"

"All right, Pete, I'll go. Let's hurry."

They slipped into their coats.

"Lucky it's mild," Pete remarked. Leaving the lights burning in the big living room they went into the kitchen and turned off the lights in that room.

"I'll stick my head out first and see if the coast is clear," Pete suggested. Opening the door a little he slipped outside. Peering into the darkness he waited. A form seemed to move near the large tree beside the garage. In a moment his eyes became more accustomed to the dark and he saw it was only a branch swaying. He heard no sound. Babe was standing just inside the door.

"Come on. It's safe."

She stepped out. He took her hand and she was glad. It seemed comforting. Moving rapidly they reached the tree. Pete whispered. "There is a little path this way. It's narrow. I'll lead. Hang on to my coat and keep close. In ten minutes we'll be perfectly safe."

Babe clung to his coat. They had been moving through the rather thin fringe of woods for about two minutes when a faint beam of light flashed in the sky.

"There they are, whoever they are," Pete whispered. We were just in time." He hurried his footsteps.

"It's pretty soft underfoot," Babe said. "Do you suppose they can follow us?"

"It'll take 'em ten minutes to find the track. By that time we'll be holed up snug." They pushed on ahead for a few rods, then Pete turned sharply to the left. The path was harder to follow now and was full of twists and bends. In five minutes a black mass loomed up before them.

"Here we are," Pete gloated. "I haven't been here for several years, but I know it well." The hinges on the door were so rusty that he had difficulty in opening it. "The ceiling is not very high," he warned, "but it's cozy."

The Shack Proves Refuge.

It was pitch black inside and there was a musty odor about the little shack, but it was fairly dry. Pete struck a match and looked for a candle. He found the end of one in a can on the bench at the rear of the tiny room. A steel cot covered with old rugs and an automobile robe took up one side of the place. Babe sat down on the cot.

Pete opened the tiny window at the rear, the only one in his shack, then sank down beside her. He suddenly realized how tired he was. Babe's head bobbed.

Pete got up. "Stretch out on the cot," he ordered. "I'll lie on the floor. They won't find us here. It's my old shack. I built it when I was just a kid, but I never dreamed it would serve me so well." He wanted to talk to Babe, but she was too sleepy to listen, and his own tongue was thick from fatigue. In a second he heard the regular breathing that told him Babe was asleep. He reached up and touched her hair very lightly. It was like an act of devotion. Finding an old Army blanket, he tucked it under his head. The hard boards felt like down to his tired body.

The sun was high in the sky when Pete awakened. Sitting up with a start, he looked around, bewildered. There was a girl sleeping on his cot. His bones ached. His whole body hurt from the hours spent on the hard floor. It was a second or two before he realized how he had arrived at this place, the play shack of his boyhood days.

When the full meaning of the situation came to him he jumped up and opened the door to see if any one had been near the place. The noise of the rusty hinges awakened Babe. She stared sleepy eyed at him.

"Gosh, I must be a fright," was her first remark. Delving into her handbag, she found a tiny mirror. "Oh!" she gave a little shriek as she saw her tousled hair. Getting out her comb, she made rapid work of rearranging the beautiful, naturally curly auburn locks. Then she laughed.

"It's instinct," she said, as if that explained everything, and Pete laughed, too. Then he found a bucket under the bench and said, "I'll be back in five minutes with some fresh water. I'm afraid I can't bring hot water that quickly, but I guess it'll do for a sketchy wash."

"Gee, but he's a peach," Babe remarked, apropos of nothing in particular, as he dashed out of the shack. "I hate to let him down so hard after all he has done for me, but——"

WATER IN HERNDON FOUND EXCELLENT

FALL JURIES SUMMONED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Dr. Ernest L. Robey, vice president of the Herndon Water Co., announced yesterday that a sample of the town's water suppy, sent to the State Health Department by Town Health Officer Dr. William Myer, showed the water to be free from contamination and in an excellent condition. Dr. Robey also stated that it had been the practice of Dr. Myer to send a sample of water taken from the town's supply to the State Health Department each month for the last six years. He declared that he believed that a mistake had been made somewhere in the report received by the county health unit, as the sample submitted was taken from the schoolhouse where the water had been undisturbed during the summer months. He further stated that he did not believe the sample taken by the health unit was a fair test of the town's water supply, which has been considered the purest and most healthful water supply in the northern section of Fairfax County, and he believes that further tests made by the county health unit will justify his statements.

The annual union meeting of the Old School Baptists will be held today, tomorrow and Sunday at the Bethel Church in Dranesville District of Fairfax County. Two sermons will be given on Friday and on Saturday and on Sunday the meeting will continue all day except for an interval for luncheon which will be served on the church grounds. Preparations have been made to hold outdoor meetings when the church is crowded beyond its capacity. Among those who will conduct the services are: Elders T. W. Alderton, of Fredericksburg, Va.; C. W. Miller, of Clarendon, Va.; T. J. Powers, of Martinsburg, W. Va.; J. B. Jenkins and R. H. Pitman, of Luray, Va.; T. S. Walton, of Baltimore, Md., and J. E. L. Alderton, of Washington.

The quick work of ten members of the Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department, led by Assistant Chief O. C. Pearson, saved the life of Kenyon Hunter, colored, of Falls Church, who was literally buried alive yesterday afternoon. Kenyon was engaged in digging a well on the place of Guy Shreve at West Falls Church, when the dirt caved in on him, completely burying him upright under 2 feet of dirt. He was unable to move because of the weight of the dirt.

Members of the department were handicapped in their efforts to rescue the imprisoned man, but with the aid of Melvin Tinner, a colored well-digger, who had responded to the alarm with them, an iron pipe was placed through the dirt to give the man air, while they were removing the dirt from over him, and bracing the side walls, which threatened to cave in at any moment. When Kenyon was taken from the well it was found that he had suffered no ill effects from his involuntary imprisonment.

The Fairfax County drought relief committee will hold another meeting tomorrow evening in the county agricultural agent's offices in the Fairfax County Courthouse. Word has been received that Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, had been appointed county chairman by Harry F. Byrd, chairman of the State Drought Relief Commission. Mr. Allen was recommended for this position by the county committee last week.

Magisterial district committees are being organized for the county-wide survey of feed, fertilizer, unemployment and water. The Falls Church and Mount Vernon districts committees have been completed and are at work. It is expected the committees from the other districts will be announced at tomorrow night's meeting.

The fall term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court will open on Monday, September 15, with Judge Walter M. McCarty presiding. This term is expected to have an exceptionally crowded criminal and civil docket. County Clerk F. W. Richardson has certified a list of names for Sheriff E. P. Kirby to summon to serve both on the criminal and civil juries during this session. Those summoned will be called for duty on September 16.

The names certified for the felony jury are as follows: W. T. Ralston, of Fairfax; J. H. Nash, Annandale; J. T. Sorrell, Dranesville; J. D. Addison, Fairfax Station; D. J. Garber, Mount Vernon; W. T. Woodson, Fairfax; M. T. Morris, Forestville; J. S. Costella, Mount Vernon; William Boyer, Fairfax Station; Frank T. Nevitt, Accotink; A. E. Wynckoop, Colvin Run; J. E. Dickey, Great Falls; E. E. Beard, Floris; Edward Hummer, Falls Church; R. H. Niswander, Seneca; Harry McGuinn, Annandale; Holcomb Rogers, Floris; F. W. Robinson, Herndon; R. H. Farver, McLean; D. F. Hanna, Annandale; J. H. Abott, Falls Church; M. W. Fox, Navy, and Harry Florence.

The men summoned for civil jury duty include N. S. Violett, Butts Corners; J. W. Dickson, Great Falls; George W. Peverille, Mount Vernon; Wilson D. McNair, Floris; W. G. Byrnes, Great Falls; George C. Davis, Fairfax Station; J. W. Rivercomb, Langley; C. A. Grubb, McLean, and H. J. Coffee.

Mrs. Amos H. Chilcott, of Fairfax, has been appointed vice chairman of the Democratic party for Fairfax County to be in charge of the women's activities. On recommendation of Judge H. M. Love, chairman of the Fairfax County Democratic committee, the appointment was made by Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee.

A meeting of the Fairfax County branch of the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore was held in the office of Secretary-Treasurer John Rust in Fairfax to consider applications for loans. The resignation of C. O. Schaub as a director and member of the appraisal committee was accepted and E. E. Neff was elected to succeed him. Walton H. Brumback, of Spring Hill, was elected director in Mr. Schaub's place. The directors passed a resolution requesting the bank in Baltimore to be lenient with delinquent members this winter in view of the unusual crop situation throughout the country. The local branch now has 149 members and is at present in good financial standing. Mr. Schaub, who resigned, is leaving Fairfax County this week to accept a position at Antioch College in Ohio.

Miss Sara E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, has announced that the 4-H clubs of the county plan to take an active part in the county fair next week. Instead of having a set exhibit of the work of various clubs this year, each of the seventeen clubs will stage a demonstration daily of the many things learned during the year. These actual demonstrations will be carried on before visitors to the exhibits. They will be under direction of Miss Thomas and club leaders.

The directors of the Falls Church Bank will hold a meeting this afternoon to consider the question of the bank's participation in the county drought relief work.

Bond Issue Called Illegal.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 4 (Special).—A recent special election at Pennsboro on a proposal to issue $40,000 in water works improvement bonds has been pronounced illegal as to minor technicalities and the town council has passed an ordinance calling another special election on the same proposal for September 30. The recent election resulted in a large majority for the bonds.

Baltimore Killing Inquest Is Today

Kennard Thompson, Boy Charged With Slaying, Ordered Held.

Baltimore, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Kennard Thompson, 16, who confessed to police yesterday that he killed his employer August 1, soaked his body in alcohol and then led a career of luxury with money obtained by forgery, was ordered held today pending the outcome of an inquest tomorrow.

The body of the employer, Hebert G. Wetters, 51, was found Tuesday night in a barrel in his small perfume and soap manufacturing establishment. His relatives thought he was on a vacation at a beach.

Kennard, in appearance like any high school boy, told officers in two statements that after the crime, committed, he said, while he was drunk, he slept all night on the floor by the body. He then went to New York, but returned two days later, and for more than three weeks slept almost every night in the upstairs apartment he had occupied with Wetters for a year. In the boy's pockets, police said today, they found a note addressed to the father, Joseph Thompson. "Unless you send me $250, I'll blow up a bank and bring disgrace on you," it said.

WARDMAN SHARES EXCHANGE PASSED

FOES TO PUSH BATTLE

Over the unanimous protest of individual stockholders in the Wardman Mortgage & Discount Corporation, Harry Wardman, with other officers and employes of the organization, in a called meeting yesterday noon, adopted a resolution by Mr. Wardman for the exchange of the corporation stock for preferred stock in the Wardman Realty & Construction Co.

The meeting, held in the corporation's offices at 106 North Asaph street in Alexandria, was called by Mr. Wardman, as its president, with the ultimate aim of liquidating its affairs through the exchange of all corporation common and preferred stock, according to an announcement at the gathering. This transfer would be optional, however, corporation officials said.

The Wardman Realty & Construction Co., which under the terms of the resolution will give in exchange its preferred stock, now is controlled by the Hotels Management & Securities Corporation. On August 25 the latter organization formally announced it had taken possession of all hotel and apartment house properties of Mr. Wardman.

Voicing resentment at the move of Mr. Wardman, his officers and employes in allowing a vote at the meeting only on the basis of the corporation common stock, private stockholders, with their total stock holdings of about $800,000, overwhelmingly in preferred stock, immediately after the session held an informal gathering of their own and unanimously authorized a small group of attorneys to act as a protective committee to safeguard their rights.

This committee, it was announced, will hold a meeting next week to determine its course in an avowed effort to nullify the resolution.

Announcement by Mr. Wardman at the opening of the corporation meeting that only holders of common stock could vote drew vigorous protest from the attorney representing various stockholders. The attorney claimed the meeting was held in less than the ten days required in Virginia after its formal announcement.

In reply to a query questioning the failure of the corporation to issue a financial statement, Daniel Thew Wright, counsel for Wardman, announced that the assets totaled only $4.20 and that this amount would not have covered the cost of mailing out financial statements.

Policemen Called Gaming Assistants

Calvert Letter Says They Act as Messengers' Escorts at Resort.

Another investigation into the activities of the proprietor of an alleged gambling house just across the District line in Maryland was under way yesterday. The new inquiry was started by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, following the receipt of a letter saying that uniformed Washington policemen escorted messengers of the house from Fifteenth and H streets to the District line near the house.

The policemen, said the letter from Charles B. Calvert, Mount Rainier attorney, who is leading the fight, guard the messengers, who carry large sums of money from a local bank to the house. Capt. J. E. Wilson, of the Ninth Precinct, said that none of his men was performing the duty officially and that he would not make a detail for such a purpose.

Several days ago Mr. Calvert asked District officials to inquire into the legality of another practice of the house. This was the free transportation of patrons from two downtown depots to the establishment. Police officials were unable to find any violation of law in this arrangement.

IMPEACHMENT CASE PROSECUTION RESTS

Defense for Supervisor in Arlington County Puts Engineer on Stand.

METHODS ARE EXPLAINED

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Entering the third day in the impeachment proceedings against Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, of Arlington district, the prosecution, after recalling County Engineer C. L. Kinnier to the stand for the fourth time and one other witness, Fred O. Lake, rested its case yesterday, whereupon Defense Attorney Wilson Farr arose and moved that the testimony be stricken out and the case dismissed. The motion was forthwith overruled.

Mr. Lake, a resident of Park Lane, testified that he, with a number of other residents of his community, had applied for water improvement in February, 1929, and despite the fact that more than 80 per cent of the prospective water users had signed a petition the installation was not made until about six weeks ago.

Engineer Kinnier stated that the installation of water to Mr. Lake's home had been completed a year and a half ago and that only that part of the extension which went into Washington district had been delayed until this summer. Kinnier claimed that when the application was first made it was impossible to work out the entire project carrying the water to Mackey Hill, but that it was extended down the Lee highway far enough to serve Mr. Lake and other residents living on the south side of the highway.

Signature Rule Explained.

Being questioned concerning the rule requiring the signatures of the owners of 60 per cent of the front footage to be served with water, he declared that this rule was not passed by resolution of the board of supervisors, but that it had been made by himself while he was handling the installation of water.

All extensions for water are now handled by the board of supervisors and have been made this year where there were but 35 per cent of the signers of petitions representing the frontage, he declared.

Opening its case, the defense called as its first witness Engineer Kinnier. Asked regarding the resolution of the board for the installation of water of June, 1928, he said he required all applications to represent 70 per cent of the property owners and required a cash payment of one-eighth of the total amount and the remainder in quarterly installments.

Installation Figures Given.

During 1929 there was installed in the county a total of 39,062 feet of laterals, of which 30,726 were in Arlington district. In 1928 77,616 feet of extensions were made in Arlington district.

"In making these extensions," he said, "I approached them in an effort to work them all out to the best advantage with the funds then available. The only motive that I ever had regarding the making of any extension was first to see that sufficient funds were put up. The location of any extension made no difference to me. I at no time showed any preference. The funds during the years 1928 and 1929 were not sufficient to meet all the demands for extensions."

"During the year 1929 did Supervisor Hedrick take any active part in water extensions?" he was asked.

"I do not know that he took any active part. He made no effort as far as I know to have favors shown to any one or any section."

Messick Got Sewer Contract.

Mr. Kinnier testified that K. Messick contracted with him for the sewer work in Waycroft. He did not enter into any other contracts except for the digging of trenches, the witness said, as he has a trench machine and the county has not.

Discussing the application made for extension along Wheeler avenue in Clarendon, where 675 feet of the 850 have been signed by property owners as far back as February, 1929, Mr. Kinnier gave as a reason for its not being made that it was this impression that the application was filed after the board of supervisors had decided to make no further extension unless all cash was put up by the property owners.

Mr. Kinnier stated that his office receives all bills, makes them up and approves and prepares the vouchers for the approval of the board of supervisors. During a month, he stated, the volume of business will range between $30,000 and $50,000.

Explains Final Bill.

Questioned by Attorney Miller on cross-examination, Mr. Kinnier again was asked about the additional 150 feet of sewer line which was installed in Waycroft and why it was not included in the final bill for the other work. He replied that the work was authorized by the Board of Supervisors in November, 1929. The bill for the work now in question, he stated, was made out under date of October 30, 1929, but not sent until December. The bill for the balance was sent out January 31, 1930, and was for $166.28, and has not yet been paid.

Mr. Kinnier admitted on the stand that he knew of no other section other than Waycroft that has received water and sewer improvement as it has.

Miss Bessie Christian, of Radnor Heights, the next witness, testified that she was a stockholder and director of the Arlington Investment Corporation and owned large amounts of land in various sections of the county valued at $300,000. She stated that when the Waycroft subdivision was purchased it was understood at a meeting of the directors that water and sewer improvements would be installed as soon as the county was in a position to do so.

Defense to Rest Today.

"I had water installed and connected to my home and it cost me $4,000," she said. "It was provided that as soon as other owners of property fronting the line paid their share that I would be reimbursed. I had no trouble when I applied for water. Mr. Kinnier came to my home and explained about the notes which were signed and which since have been paid. I understand that a number of property owners along the line have made connections, but as yet the county has not reimbursed me."

Counsel for the defense stated when court adjourned yesterday that it would complete its case today.

Expressions were freely made about the courthouse yesterday that regardless of the verdict the case will be carried to the court of appeals.

COUNTY DEMOCRATS HOLD PARTY RALLY

Montgomery County Regulars Deny Diversion of School Funds.

STATEMENT IS OFFERED

Progress the present Montgomery County administration has made in the past ten years and the excellent economical government it has given residents of Montgomery County in that period was described by speakers at a rally of the organization Democrats held last night at Poolesville. Speakers at the rally urged the voters to continue support of the present administration.

The candidates who addressed the meeting pointed out that the county school system now ranks first in the State of Maryland and the State ranks fourth in the United States.

Charges attributed to progressive candidates that $130,000, which had been appropriated for an addition to the Chevy Chase Elementary School to provide for an increased school population, had been diverted to the courthouse building fund were vigorously denied by Marvin Farrington, organization candidate for member of the House of Delegates from Chevy Chase.

Mr. Farrington exhibited statements from Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools; J. Forrest Walker, county treasurer, and Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, which showed that this money had been available at all times. Mr. Broome's statement declared that the money had been available and that the delay in building the addition had been caused by the request of the Parent-Teacher Association of the school to have a consulting architect pass upon the plans. The association asked that Delos H. Smith, Washington architect, be employed for that work, and the architect was unable to get to the plans until he had completed several other important commissions, Mr. Farrington explained.

Bids have been asked for this project and the advertisements have been inserted in county papers for this week, he said.

Other speakers were Miss Lavinia Engle, candidate for member of the House of Delegates, who praised the county administration, with special emphasis on the cooperation which had been given by the present administration in welfare and juvenile problems; Maj. E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the House of Delegates, who outlined the county bond issue programs and explained the working of the financing of the county's expenses and improvements; Robert G. Hilton, candidate for State senator; Stedman Prescott, candidate for State's attorney. Judge Charles W. Woodward presided.

Two rallies were held last night by the Progressive Democratic faction, one at the home of George Bradley, in Bethesda, and the other at Laytonsville.

Speakers attacked the conduct of county affairs by the present administration and urged that the Progressive faction be elected in order that the county taxes could be lowered and the present system of bonded improvements halted.

Provisions of the Cramton bill, which would permit the loan by the Federal Government of $8,000,000 to Montgomery and Prince Georges counties for the purchase of park lands in the main valleys of nearby creeks, was the main target for the speakers. They declared that acceptance of the loan would mean that the county's taxes would be increased by 30 per cent in the course of eight years, when repayment of the loans is to be made. The Progressives are not opposed to the parks, they said, but believe that the Federal Government should pay for the parks without cost to the county.

Speakers at the meetings were E. Barrett Prettyman, candidate for House of Delegates; Dr. Eugene Jones, candidate for reelection to the State Senate; John Oxley, candidate for State's attorney; Mrs. Parker Weller, of Poolesville; Albert M. Boulc, Rockville lawyer; Carey Quinn, secretary of the Progressive faction.

Arguments were made yesterday in the hearing on the suit filed by Walter Mobley, Derwood taxpayer, which asks that the Montgomery County commissioners be forced to repay $25,000 which had been paid to the Maryland News for county advertising and printing while three members of the board were members of the board of directors of the newspaper.

The proceedings were halted to enable attorneys for both sides to file briefs in support of their contentions. Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, appeared for the commissioners and Roger J. Whiteford appeared for the Maryland News. Miss Vivian V. Simpson and Harold C. Smith appeared for the plaintiff.

Fire yesterday totally destroyed a barn and chicken shed on the farm of George Windham, county policeman, at Colesville. The damage was estimated at $2,000. Firemen from Silver Spring and Sandy Spring responded to the alarm and saved the residence, which was scorched on the side next the barn. The fire was discovered by Mr. Windham, who was at work nearby. The fire is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion in a quantity of hay and straw stored in the barn.

There were 617 legal instruments filed in the office of Preston B. Ray, clerk of the circuit court at Rockville, in the month of August, it was revealed in the monthly report from that office yesterday. The instruments were divided as follows: 169 deeds, 130 mortgages and releases, 110 trusts and 208 bills of sale.

Fauquier Schools Open For Term September 12

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Sept. 4.—The public schools of Fauquier County will open for the 1930-31 session September 12. A teachers' meeting for all schools of the county will be held in Warrenton the day before, according to W. H. Thomas, school superintendent.

The Warrenton High School will this year feature a business department, in which a regular course will be conducted in typewriting, stenography and bookkeeping. Arrangements have also been made to serve hot lunches at the school. Warrenton High, the largest school in the county, has a faculty of eighteen, including P. B. Smith, principal, this term.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET COMPLETED

CONVENTION LIST READY

Completion of the Republican ticket for Prince Georges for the general elections in November was announced yesterday by Albert R. Hassall, secretary of the State Central committee for Prince Georges County. The names of candidates for judges of the orphans court and two more candidates for the State convention delegation were announced, completing the ticket.

Edward Garner, of Croome; John Galloway, of Piscataway, and Mrs. Lulu Bickford, who now is a member of the State central committee, were named as candidates for judges of the orphans court. State's Attorney J. Frank Parran, who is not a candidate for reelection, and Harry A. Sweeney, of Piscataway, have been added to the candidates for delegates to the State convention. The two additional names make a delegation of nine, which will result in each delegate having only seven-ninths of a vote, Mr. Hassall, who is unopposed as the Republican candidate for State's attorney, announced.

The mayor and council of Edmonston will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Edmonston School. Plans and specifications for the concrete sidewalk and lighting which are to be added to the bridge over the Eastern Branch in the town will be submitted to the council by Town Engineer Myers.

Mr. Myers had not completed the plans in time for meeting which was scheduled for last Friday.

Disinfectants poured into the branch by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission has relieved the stench caused by the dead fish in the stream after the drought had dried up most of the water.

Representatives of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. have been asked to attend a meeting of the mayor and town council of Hyattsville, Monday night at 8 o'clock to discuss the possibility of placing lighting and telephone wires underground in Hyattsville.

The town council plans to establish a new policy which would require the building of underground conduits for lighting and telephone wires, especially in the business section.

A hearing on improvements for Cecil avenue, which have been requested by property owners, will be held September 15.

The flood committee of the Prince Georges County Federation of Citizens Association will make a report on its progress at a meeting of the association Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the parish hall of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Bladensburg.

W. R. Beattie is chairman of the committee which has been studying the possibility of establishing a county hospital in Prince Georges and will make a report at the meeting. A report by the committee no parks and developments also will be heard. Judge Alfred D. Bailey is president of the federation.

PIERCE IS ELECTED ALEXANDRIA MAYOR

Ticer Unanimously Chosen Vice Magistrate During Council Meeting.

NEW MEMBER SWORN IN

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The city council met in its first regular session yesterday and the one new member who had not heretofore been sworn in took the oath of office, which was administered by Elliott F. Hoffman, clerk of the corporation court. He is Clyde C. Lamond, retired business man, and this is his first term in public office. Arthur Herbert, former member of the old board of police commissioners, and Edmund F. Ticer, who was reelected, took the oath Monday.

The first action of the council was to elect a chairman of the council, or ex officio mayor. The name of Carroll Pierce was placed in nomination by Councilman Arthur Herbert and the election was unanimous. Councilman Fannon then nominated Edmund F. Ticer for vice mayor and Mr. Ticer nominated Purvis Taylor for clerk to the council. These elections, also, were unanimous.

At this stage of the meeting a report was received of the accident to the truck of No. 2 Engine Company, of Potomac, in which Policeman Whitfield W. Lipscomb lost his life and three firemen were injured, and City Manager Lawrence was instructed to make an investigation of the accident and report back to the council. A resolution was then adopted providing that a letter of regret be sent to the family of Policeman Lipscomb.

Councilman Ticer introduced a resolution, which was adopted, providing that the thanks of the city council and of the City of Alexandria be extended to Robert S. Jones, retiring mayor, for his faithful and conscientious service to the city.

Cash Balance of $8,953.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence presented the financial statements of the city for the months of June and July, showing a cash balance on hand as of August 1, of $8,953.25.

A petition submitted by Miss McClellan and Miss Higgins, for the transfer of the Woman's Exchange, now at 108 South Patrick street, to 125 North Washington street, was held over.

A petition from the P. & H. Morton Sign Co. for a permit to move two of the company's signs to new locations was granted.

A communication was received from Louis A. Watres, president of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association, protesting against the granting of permits for the establishment at King street and Washington road of filling stations, these permits having been asked by Robert F. Downham and Miss Inez Jenkins. Mr. Watres mentioned the large amount of money being spent on the memorial temple, and the efforts being made to beautify that section, and asked that the permits be not granted. The council withheld action on the letter until such time as the petitions for permits are formally considered.

A letter was received from Clarence E Ridgely, executive secretary of the International Association of City Managers, inviting Alexandria to be represented at the convention to be held in San Francisco, September 24 to 27.

T. C. Bryan, business manager of the George Washington Bicentennial News, a publication in the interest of the bicentennial celebration, addressed a letter to the council, asking that the City of Alexandria place an advertisements in his publication. This matter was held over.

Additional Policemen Considered.

The question of appointing another policeman for the Rosemont section was again discussed and held over.

The Rev. H. B. Brenner, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, requested permission to preach on the streets, which was granted, with the understanding that services would be held only at points approved by the chief of police, the permit to run for one year unless sooner revoked.

The offer recently made by the city to the Sun Lumber Co. for a right of way through the company's property for the Mount Vernon boulevard was increased from $1,000 to $1,350, which was understood to be acceptable to the company, and the matter was considered closed. Attorney John Barton Phillips represented the company.

Former Mayor Robert S. Jones appeared before the council in his capacity as president of the United Charities, and requested an appropriation by the city of $200 for the work of the organization, which was granted.

Ordinance No. 98 was placed on its first reading and held over under the rules. This provides a minimum penalty of $100, or 60 days in jail, or both, in the discretion of the court, for violation of any city ordinance heretofore adopted which did not in themselves provide a penalty, this feature having been omitted in several ordinances.

A commission of five members, to be known as the zoning commission, has been appointed by Judge William P. Woolls, of the corporation court, and is composed of Harry Hammond, George E. Garrett, Nicholas J. Lawler, Robert L. Kane and Ben B. Ezrine. It will be the duty of this commission to divide the municipal area into districts and make regulations for the use of lands, buildings and structures therein.

The appointment of the commission was announced to the city council at its meeting yesterday, and the members were confirmed. The commission will meet informally with the council on September 11, for the purpose of organizing, and the question of compensation for the members will be decided upon at that time.

Policemen Grimm and Embrey early yesterday morning were startled by a sound of breaking glass as they entered a lunchroom in the 700 block of King street, and they hurried to the rear entrance of the place and into the alley leading to Columbus street to investigate, when they found the glass in the Columbus street door of the Peoples' Service Drug Store had been broken, but the would-be thief was evidently frightened away by the quick approach of the officers.

The police communicated with H. C. Reece and W. B. Wilson, managers of the store, who stated they found nothing missing, but evidence was that the intruder had been near the case containing narcotics.

The following grand jury has been summoned to meet in the corporation courtroom at 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning, Judge William P. Woolls presiding; J. R. Eddington, J. C. Ramage, Arthur H. Bryant, R. J. Schooley, C. E. Dare, A. N. Shuman, J. H. Newell, C. T. Nicholson and R. Samuel Luckett.

Trio Hurt in Crash Near Martinsburg

Two in Hospital, Third Goes Home After Being Given Treatment.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 4.—William Swann, telephone lineman, was in a local hospital today, seriously injured; Edward Stanley was also in the hospital, but with less serious injuries; Ralph Copenhaver was able to go to his home after hospital treatment, and John Stanley escaped unhurt in a collision between two cars 3 miles south of here on the State road late Wednesday night. Swann's car crashed into the rear of the other car, parked along the road for repairs.

Swann was badly cut and bruised about the chest and internal injuries were feared.

The engine on his car was torn clear of its housing and driven back into the car. Edward Stanley suffered fractured ribs and serious cuts. Copenhaver, although unconscious for several hours, was thought not seriously hurt.

ALEXANDRIA SCENE OF CAMPBELL PLEA

Federal Judge Will Hear Appeal There About Middle of This Month.

WITNESSES ARE CALLED

The appeal of Herbert M. Campbell from the decision of United States Commissioner J. Barton Phillips that he should be removed from Arlington County to the District for trial on a charge of murdering Mary Baker will be heard in Alexandria, instead of in Norfolk, it was announced yesterday.

Judge D. Lawrence Groner, of the Federal court at Norfolk, who will hear the appeal, made the change in plans because, he said, it would be easier for him to go to Alexandria than for all the witnesses and attorneys involved to go to Norfolk.

The hearing will be held about September 15, Judge Groner said, the definite date awaiting a conference with United States Attorney Paul W. Kear, of Norfolk, who is now away on his vacation.

Both the prosecution and the defense will be permitted to introduce any and all witnesses, so the appeal will virtually be a new hearing, Commissioner Phillips, when he ruled on the case a fortnight ago, refused to let the defense call witnesses, holding that he had no authority to rule on the merits of the case

Man Held in Killing Of Store Operator

Is Charged With Stealing Car Believed One Seen Near Death Scene.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Sept. 4.—Rufus Dodson, a former resident of this section, is being held in the Culpeper County Jail for investigation in connection with the murder of William H. Strother, who was found shot to death in his store 10 miles from here on August 26. Dodson, who said he was from Baltimore, was arrested at the Culpeper fair several days ago on the charge of stealing an automobile in Baltimore.

Sergt. P. L. Thornton and Inspector F. N. Utz, of the State motor vehicle department, made the arrest and recovered the stolen car which answered the general description of one which was parked in the woods near Strother's store about the time it is thought Strother was murdered. Positive identification of the car as the same one has not been made although it is of the same appearance and bears Maryland license plates as did the one in the woods.

Strother came to Madison County several years ago and opened a store and attracted much attention by carrying large sums of money on his person at all times. He lived alone and when he was missing for some little time no attention was paid until a neighbor looked in a window of his store and saw him dead on the floor. The coroner's inquest revealed that he had been shot three times. His empty wallet by his side and a spoon beside a partly emptied can of beans were the only clews.

Earl Thompson, who appealed two judgments in prohibition cases, withdrew his appeals and will pay fines aggregating $225 and serve nine months in jail.

NEW CHURCH SEEN IN CHERRYDALE ROW

FIRE DESTROYS HOMES

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

As a result of the group of 35 families leaving the Cherrydale Baptist Church at the meeting held at the church August 21 it was learned last night that there are strong indications of a new Baptist Church being started in Cherrydale.

Announcements went out yesterday that there will be services conducted by the Rev. Elmer Lucas Sunday morning and evening in the auditorium of the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall. The morning services will be at 11 o'clock and evening services at 8 o'clock. Sunday school will be held in the morning at 10 o'clock.

While both the pastor and those who have received their letters have declined to comment on the break, it is understood that action followed a division in the church membership over a dispute between the pastor and H. S. Potter, superintendent of the Sunday school.

It was learned last night that should the sentiment among the group of 35 and a number more, said to have applied for their letters, be strong for another church in Cherrydale, that the movement will be started without delay.

Fire of unknown origin partly destroyed the home of A. Burton, colored, at Fort Berry, Arlington County, yesterday afternoon, causing damage estimated at $2,000.

The Arlington Fire Department was forced to return to its firehouse for more hose, as it was necessary to lay out more than 1,500 feet to reach the building. Other departments that responded were Clarendon, Ballston and the East Arlington Colored Department.

Norman T. Myers, member of the Arlington department, suffered deep cuts about the head from falling timbers. He was treated by Dr. H. C. Corbett.

The Arlington County School Board, at its meeting held last night in the office of the county school superintendent, announces that the county public schools will open Monday, September 22.

While it could not be determined how the present additions to the schools, now in course of construction, will affect the opening, the board takes the view that it must set a definite date for the opening and take care of the crowded conditions which are faced as best it can until the additions are completed.

Arrangements for the fifth annual meeting of the John Marshall Highway Association, to be held tomorrow at Thoroughfare Gap, have been completed, according to an announcement made by the secretary, Lawrence Michael.

This organization is sponsoring the construction of a coast-to-coast highway as a memorial to the late Chief Justice John Marshall. The first section of this highway already, with the exception of only about 10 miles, has been taken over by the Virginia State Highway Commission.

One of the principal speakers at the meeting tomorrow will be State Senator Frank L. Ball, of Arlington County, who will deliver an address on John Marshall. Among other speakers will be: Representative R. Walton Moore; Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, Democratic nominee to succeed Mr. Moore; William Carson, of Riverton, Va., member of the State Conservation Commission, and John Barton Payne, president of the American Red Cross and honorary president of the John Marshall Association.

The route of the highway across Arlington County will be that of the so-called straight-to-the-bridge boulevard, passing through Clarendon and Ballston.

The meeting will be an all-day affair with a basket picnic at noon and it is anticipated that a large delegation from Arlington County will attend the meeting. Hugh E. Naylor, of Front Royal, will preside.

The St. Charles Parochial School, at Clarendon, opens its ninth term Monday morning at 9 o'clock, it was announced last night. All pupils planning to enter school this year will register at the schoolhouse today.

The school is in charge of the Benedictine Sisters and it is expected that the total enrollment this fall will reach 175 pupils, which will exceed that of last year.

The Arlington Rotary Club held its meeting yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club with Judge Alexander T. Browning, of Orange, as its honored guest.

Following a short business session immediately after luncheon a special Boy Scout program was presented with William Leetch, of Alexandria, leader of the Boy Scouts of Arlington County, as the principal speaker.

Sale of Danville Utility Faces Injunction Action

Special o The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 4.—Interest in the power sale situation today centered on a reported movement among interested citizens to employ counsel to apply to Justice Louis Epes, of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, for an injunction to prevent the holding of an election on the bid of $4,300,000 of the Western Power Light & Telephone Co. for the city utilities plant, which has already been accepted by the city council.

Judge Don P. Halsey, of Lynchburg, yesterday signed the writ of election after Judge Henry Leigh had refused on grounds that he deemed it improper because he had served on the local power commission.

An effort was made by counsel for the triutilities corporation, whose bid was rejected by the council, to block the election. However, Judge Halsey ruled that the procedure of the council conforms with the Ficklen bill.
